Very Rich, Very Happy, Perhaps
But, Beware the Idle
Why Shaw Eats Cake
Question for Pump Makers

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1930, King Features Synd., Inc.

HODGE, CAL., FEB. 3—The rich in this happy land, VERY happy for some, are richer than they ever were. The Treasury Department tells you there were 496 Americans in 1928 with annual incomes above one million dollars. The total on which they paid income tax was one thousand and seventy-three millions.

And as you know, this represents only a fraction of the really big incomes. There are men with incomes above one hundred millions each. Their money is in great corporations. The latter reinvest their earnings and hand stock dividends instead of cash to the big controlling stockholders. On such dividends, in accordance with the Supreme Court decision, the really rich men pay no income tax.

One man with much more than a hundred million, paid, as shown in reports once published, only six millions income tax. Without the stock dividend device he would have paid forty millions, at least. A lot of salary earners and professional men made up the difference.

Of the super-millionaires, 24 have more than ten millions a year each. With all that money you would expect to hear of some remarkable and interesting things done, but money and imagination do not often go together. Imagination prevents accumulation.

According to treasury figures we have now about 45,000 millionaires among us. Unfortunately we have, for every millionaire, about 100 men out of work earning nothing. The super-millionaire class should do some serious thinking about the unemployed.

Five millions idle and unhappy among 120,000,000 can be "handled" easily, but beware of the second idle five millions. The first five million are, with due respect for some unfortunates, the least able.

Or they are older men, excluded from work by our cold-blooded industrial system. They are not the rebellious hard hitters. Five millions more of the idle would mean danger, and a third five million would mean disaster.

In Britain they give a "dole," enough cash from the public purse to keep all the idle from actual hunger. They think that cheaper than a revolution, and they are right. Fortunately, in this richest of nations, we need have no dole and no idle, except among the lazy and incompetent, if the great fortunes that run the country will use their brains or hire some one to think for them.

So many ways of making a living. One woman started selling coffee, well made, and has millions. In this part of the world a colored woman started a small eating shanty, cooked well, and her business, taken over by white people, is worth millions.

Arland Dickson, who runs the Dickson Mound mink ranch, has just shipped 75 of the small fur animals, getting $2925 in cash for them. Not much in Wall Street but a great deal on a mink ranch. The Fulton Democrat tells about that.

For brains and ingenuity there are always openings and success. What is wanted is something that will give a decent living to any man or woman, willing to do honest work. Even the average man has a right to live, or should have.

At Lady Astor's, George Bernard Shaw gave Dwight Morrow, and other American naval conference delegates, his views on the conference. He said the next naval battle would be a fight between America and England and "your conference is called to decide that you will fight 12 instead of 15 miles apart, with smaller boats and smaller guns."

Delegates were surprised at the amount of chocolate cake eaten by Shaw, a large cake, all for him. That comes of a vegetable diet. Unable to get his supply of calories and protein food, condensed in meat, Shaw must absorb great quantities of substitutes. Not good for him.

FEARS COAST GUARD SLAIN TO SEAL LIPS

U. S. Attorney Orders Probe, Believing He Was Killed by Rum-Runners

Revealing that Coast Guardsman Victor L. Harris, who was found shot dead aboard the patrol boat 152 at the East Boston base, was to be the leading witness in several big rum seizures shortly, Asst. U. S. Atty. Hubert C. Thompson today overrode coast guard officials and ordered a special investigation of his death.

The two men who handled the government's investigation of the slaying of three rum-runners aboard the Black Duck off Newport, Deputy Surveyor of the Port Thomas P. Finnegan and Customs Agent Owen P. McKenna, were assigned by Thompson to the case.

Thompson said he believes Harris may have been slain by rum-runners "to seal his lips."

FIND NO MOTIVE

Coast guard officials, on the other hand, view it as a case of suicide, but have been unable to determine the motive, as Harris had an excellent reputation and was to be promoted. He was a bo'sun's mate, first class, and promotion would have given him command of a rum chaser.

"Harris was boarding officer in several important rum captures recently and was to be the important witness in several cases against these rum runners in federal court soon," said Thompson.

"I cannot reveal what these cases are, but further devlopments may be expected."

A Coast Guard court of inquiry was winding up its investigation of Harris' death when the other branch of the federal authorities suddenly took a hand in the matter. Unofficially, officers not connected with this court said the murder theory had been abandoned and that Harris was believed a suicide.

SHOT IN TEMPLE

The reason for the suicide, if it was one, remained a mystery, they said. Personal belongings of the deceased were examined by the court for clues to a motive and information was sought from his shipmates and from his wife, who lives with their two children in Franklin.

Officials ventured a suspicion of

'Richest' Boy Taken by Death

Baltimore, Feb. 4 (AP)—Seventeen-year-old Alan E. Lefcourt, probably the world's richest property owner of his age, died at the Baltimore hospital of anaemia. He was the son of A. E. Lefcourt, New York builder and real estate operator. He had been under treatment at the hospital for a month.

Five years ago his father, who has built more than 25 skyscrapers in New York, gave him a deed to 16,000 square feet of property at Madison ave. and 34th st. Lefcourt at that time said he would erect a 30-story building on the site, the total cost of the project being estimated at $10,000,000.

SEE DEMOCRATS IN BIG SWEEP

Charles H. McGlue, former chairman of the Democratic State Committee, at a hearing today at the State House, predicted his party will elect a governor and a United States senator next fall.

McGlue was speaking on 11 bills he filed for changes in the election laws.

At the time of voicing his prediction, McGlue was urging that vacancies in the office of United States senator, caused by death or resignation or other cause, be filled by special election.

He argued that the present law, which allows the governor to fill such a vacancy pending a special or general election, is bad in that it allows the state to be represented by the opinion of one man.

"Also," he said, "I object to the situation where a Republican governor could appoint a Republican to the Senate when all indications today point to the fact that the people want a Democrat."

DERRICK BOOM BREAKS, FALLS; SIX HURT

Drops With Load 11 Stories at New Building, Devonshire and Franklin Sts.

Six men seeking employment were injured and a number of others had narrow escapes when a 60-foot "Chicago" boom, lifting a ton and a half of floor boards, broke at the General Trust Building under construction at Franklin and Devonshire sts. today.

The broken boom dropped almost upon a crowd of men outside the employment office of the Thompson-Starrett Co., builders, on the Devonshire st. side of the construction.

Two men were taken to Haymarket Relief hospital in an ambulance.

John Leonetti, 42, of 79 Lubec st., East Boston, suffered from a two-inch laceration on the head, and bruises to the head and body.

Anthony Di Benedittio, 45, of 55 Liberty st., Chelsea, was treated for a scalp wound and bruises of the head and body.

Four other men, treated at the scene by ambulance surgeons, were:

John Abbott, 40, of Pearl st., Cambridge.

Catacdofue Peno, 40, Village st., South End.

Joseph De Motta, 52, Kirkland st., South End.

Rosaria San Filippo, 45, Chambers st., West End.

The floor boards in a sling had been raised as high as the 11th floor of the structure, of which 12 of the 21 have been erected, when the topping lift snapped.

The load shot downward, and when opposite the fifth floor the heavy boom broke off at the bottom. The load of boards dropped on to a pile of brick on Devonshire st., while the boom struck a second floor staging, and crashed through.

Boom and staging then fell and the crowd of men seeking employment, scattered in panic. The City Hospital ambulance arrived shortly, followed by an ambulance from Division 2.

Battling for His Life

William Howard Taft, retired chief justice of the United States Supreme Court, whose illness took a serious turn for the worse today. Photo shows Mr. Taft in wheel chair just before he left for Asheville, N. C., three weeks ago. He arrived in Washington today almost helpless and was carried to his home there.

DECLARE HIS 'CONDITION EXTREMELY SERIOUS'

Bulletin Gives Details of Prolonged Illness; Heart Disease Expert Is Called

Washington, Feb. 4 (AP)—William Howard Taft, until yesterday chief justice of the United States, lay helpless in his home here today while physicians were on the verge of abandoning hope for his recovery.

Brought here from Asheville, N. C. where he had gone to recuperate from a bladder ailment, the former President was moved to his Wyoming ave. residence and an hour's examination by Doctors Thomas A. Claytor and Frances A. Hagner resulted in a pessimistic statement which showed Mr. Taft had suffered a general breakdown of his circulatory system complicated by a bladder ailment. The condition was described as extremely serious.

In medical terms the former chief justice is afflicted with artero sclerosis, or hardening of the arteries, and myocarditis, an allied disease. The bladder trouble is called chronic cystitis.

SUFFERS NO PAIN

"He has no fever and suffers no pain," was the only cheerful statement in the physicians' bulletin, which read:

"For some years Chief Justice Taft has had a very high blood pressure associated with general arterior sclerosis and myocarditis. Together with these conditions he has had a chronic cystitis. He has no fever and suffers no pain. His present serious condition is the result of general arterio sclerotic changes."

The bulletin was issued at the Taft home and the physicians planned to make another visit to their patient during the afternoon. Earlier in the day, upon the arrival of Mr. Taft at the Union Station, Dr. Hagner said that as far as he could determine there was no immediate danger to the life of the former President.

CALL SPECIALIST.

Mr. Taft's doctors decided early this afternoon to call into consultation Dr. William Sidney Thayer, of Baltimore, who has attended the former chief justice many times in the past. After that consultation another statement on Mr. Taft's condition is expected. Dr. Thayer is an expert on heart diseases.

Later it was said Dr. Thayer would assist in a blood test to determine whether there were signs of uremic poisoning from the kidneys.

Listless, pale and drawn, the former President was able to stand the trip here from Asheville, but the change in his appearance was startling to his friends. He was

Costs Hughes $500,000 a Year to Be Justice

Washington, Feb. 4—When Charles Evans Hughes retired some years ago from public life he announced that he found it necessary to make a fortune for his family.

His earnings as a lawyer have been reported to amount to $500,000 a year and he has found time to take a conspicuous part in politics and international affairs.

Mr. Hughes was considered comparatively poor when he left public life. Recently he has been paying $48,000 a year for his New York apartment. He is of the type that spends conservatively.

He will be America's richest chief justice.

President Hoover today was assured of confirmation of his first appointment to the Supreme Court when Senate leaders announced their approval of the appointment of Mr. Hughes as chief justice to succeed William Howard Taft.

Senator Norris (R.) of Nebraska, chairman of the judiciary committee, said the nomination probably would be taken up by the full committee at its regular meeting Monday.

With the court in recess until Feb. 24, the need for a speedy transition is not regarded as essential. Mr. Hughes, it is expected, will assume his office the middle of next week.

LEFT COURT IN 1912

Elevation of Mr. Hughes occasioned wide comment in political circles. The former Secretary of State, it was pointed out, was one of the bulwarks of the Hoover

U. S.-JAP CLASH ON CRUISERS

London, Feb. 4 (AP)—The naval delegates of the United States and Japan, following this morning's general conference session got together for the first of a series of heart-to-heart conversations regarding naval ratios as affecting the two countries.

At the invitation of Henry L. Stimson, American Secretary of State, Reijiro Wakatsuki, chief of the Japanese delegation, went to the Secretary's hotel where they secluded themselves with the idea of talking over the problem of the number of 10,000-ton cruisers Japan shall have in relation to the totals of the United States.

As the two leaders faced each other in this problem, their positions were this: The United States conceded Japan a ratio of 60 per cent of American tonnage in these heavy cruisers, while Japan claimed 70 per cent.

The American position, in brief, was to stick by the famous 5-5-3

Demands Bay State's Income Tax Repeal

Repeal of the Massachusetts income tax law was demanded at a public hearing before the legislative committee on taxation at the State House today by Representative Henry Achin of Lowell.

Achin is author of a bill providing for repeal of the tax on all incomes derived from professions, employment, trade or business.

He said the business of the state is jeopardized by heavy taxation on industry and homes, and added that the authorities are seeking to secure more money than ever before through the levying of licenses for services which a few years ago were given freely.

The income law tax in this state, he said, was originally urged on the ground that it would relieve the tax burden on real estate. He charged that as a matter of fact

Sen. Ward Stricken at State House

Senator Michael J. Ward, former city councilor and at present chief lieutenant for Mayor Curley on Beacon Hill, collapsed today in the State House.

He was taken ill in the office of the civil service commission as he was about to start for the Senate chamber. Dr. Sumner C. Andrews, medical surgeon attached to the civil service department, gave first aid and then he was sent to City Hospital, where physicians said his condition was serious.

Senator Ward has been in ill health for some time, but had remained at his post.

Wilbur Mentioned for University Head

Chicago, Feb. 4 (AP)—Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, is included in a list of educators under consideration as successor to Dr. David Kinley, president of the University of Illinois, who retires at the end of the present school year.

It is understood that Secretary Wilbur, former president of Leland Stanford University, has not given the committee any hope that he will accept the presidency if offered to him.

Hoover Says U.S. Must Withdraw From Haiti

Washington, Feb. 4 (INS)—President Hoover today announced his intention of appointing immediately a commission to determine "when and how the United States can withdraw from Haiti." The personnel, of five or seven persons, will be announced before the end of the week.

"I have no desire to be represented aboard by marines," the President said in making known his decision.

The primary question Mr. Hoover will ask his commission to investigate is how American supervision may best be withdrawn from the island republic. The second question is what shall be done in the meantime.

"Certainly we shall withdraw our marines and officials some time, the President said. "There are some people who wish for us to scuttle over night. I am informed that every group in Haiti considers that such action would result in disaster to the Haitian people.

"On the other hand, the treaty under which our forces are present in that country, in the main ex-

Maine Town Reports Coldest Day, 40 Below

Fort Fairfield, Me., Feb. 4 (AP)—The coldest day of the winter was reported in northern Aroostook County today, with unofficial temperatures reaching 40 degrees below zero.

Thermometers at Fort Fairfield showed from 35 to 40 below, while at Caribou 36 below was reported from the State fish hatchery.

A drop of 40 degrees in temperature in less than 12 hours was on record at St. Johnsbury, Vt., today. From 25 above zero yesterday afternoon, the mercury fell to 15 below.

Conan Doyle Is Confined to Bed

London, Feb. 4 (AP)—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, creator of Sherlock Holmes, is ill with heart trouble and has been confined to his bed for the past few weeks.

Word was received today that spiritualists of Australia, England and the United States were offering special prayers for his recovery. Overwork during the spiritualist campaign in Scandinavia was said to have weakened his heart so that a walk of 100 yards left him breathless.

Another Gang Victim Is Shot in Chicago

Chicago, Feb. 4 (AP)—William Healy crawled from an alley on the South Side early today with two bullet holes in his back.

The gang guns were writing with lead their answer to the statements of police and state's attorney that the new outbreak of crime "must be stopped."

Healy, probably fatally wounded was taken to the People's Hospital, where Johnny Genaro, another recent gang gun victim, lies in a critical condition from bullet wounds. It was the same hospital, too, that treated Healy five years ago when he was brought in suffering from two knife wounds, also in the back.

As was the case five years ago, Healy today refused to name his assailants. He maintained his si-speaking campaign during the close of the presidential race.

By a strange twist of fate, Hughes will succeed to the judicial robes of Taft, who appointed him to the high court in 1910. The new chief justice resigned from the bench in 1916 to become Republican candidate for President against Woodrow Wilson.

The President, however, has had the selection of Hughes in mind for some weeks, it was said at the White House. In fact, it was said that the President discussed the matter with Hughes twice recently, the last time at breakfast on Thursday.

Before Hughes can assume his duties, he must first resign as a judge on the international court of justice of the League of Nations, to which he was elected more than a year ago.

SON TO RESIGN

Another unusual thing connected with the Hughes appointment is the fact that Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., is the solicitor-general of the United States, the legal representative of the government in most important cases before the Supreme Court.

Thus, the son as advocate, would face his father, the chief justice. However it was announced at the Department of Justice that it is understood that upon the new chief justice assuming office the son will resign as solicitor general.

Hughes to Join a Divided Court

Washington, Feb. 4—Appointment of Charles Evans Hughes as chief justice today was hailed with satisfaction by those who regard the conservative tenor of the court's constitutional interpretations as a bulwark of strength for the nation.

Having helped to establish many precedents which govern decisions on modern day problems while a justice of the court from 1910 to 1916, the regime of Mr. Hughes, it was predicted, will follow the trend which marked the chief justiceship of Justice Taft.

With the court sharply divided, six to three, in many vital constitutional decisions in the past three years, the first appointment to the court of Mr. Hoover occasioned unusually wide comment among lawyers and officials. Occasionally the court has divided 5 to 4.

The majority of the court, including Chief Justice Taft, Justices Vandevanter, McReynolds, Butler, Sutherland, and Sanford have frequently been at odds with Justices Holmes, Brandeis and Stone.

The appointment of a justice in sympathy with the three dissenting justices, it was pointed out, might have vitally affected many close decisions of vast importance.

Both Wets and Drys Pleased With the Choice of Hughes

Washington, Feb. 4 (INS)—Opposing wet and dry armies in Congress today professed satisfaction with the appointment of Charles Evans Hughes as chief justice of the Supreme Court.

Senator Sheppard (D.), of Texas, father of the Eighteenth Amendment, said:

"So far as I know the appointment will make no change in the court's attitude toward the prohibition law."

The wets were just as pleased, one of their Senate leaders saying confidentially: "Mr. Hughes has never taken a position on the effectiveness of the prohibition law as a temperance measure and has never been classed as a dry."

"In addition to that," this wet leader added, "Mr. Hughes declined to serve as chairman of the President's law enforcement and observance commission, indicating he had no desire to get mixed up in the prohibition mess."

pires in 1936, or six years hence. We have no mandate to continue the present relationship after that date."

Mr. Hoover explained this nation has a distinct obligation to the people of Haiti and it is necessary to plan how it may best be discharged.

"There is need to build up a certainty of efficient and stable government," he said, "in order that life and property may be protected after we withdraw."

The President paid high tribute to the regime of Maj. Gen. John H. Russell in Haiti, and called attention to the development and growth of the country under his leadership.

ratio evolved at the Washington conference for capital ships.

This question, of course, is interlocked with that of what limitation Great Britain and the United States are to put on the number of heavy cruisers, with parity between them.

It was understood that Mr. Stimson was going to put this query in substance to Mr. Wakatsuki:

If the United States has, for example, 21 10,000-ton cruisers, how many does Japan want?

If the United States has 18, how many does Japan want?"

This afternoon's conversation was one of a group of three.

Japan, the United States and Great Britain are now starting to settle their own differences. It was made clear that they propose to get down to definite talk on these problems immediately.

These private meetings will run parallel with similar discussions between the Italians and French who are facing differences which lie mainly outside of those with which the other three powers are grappling.

TACKLE NAVAL TONNAGE

French and British plans for limiting naval tonnage had earlier today been put under a microscope at a two-hour session of the delegations of the five-power conference sitting as a committee of the whole at St. James Palace.

The heads of the delegations did not participate in the meeting, but held a session of their own in another part of the palace.

The general session took up the proposals of the two nations paragraph by paragraph, a spokesman for each nation contributing to the discussions. Examination of the proposals will be continued at a later date.

With First Lord of the Admiralty Alexander in the chair the conference took the French proposal as a basis for discussion. Alexander then submitted the British counter-proposal. The discussion which followed was only on the broadest terms and largely of an explanatory nature.

Rene Massigli, speaking for the French, laid emphasis on the publicity feature of the French scheme, that is, the obligation to give notice of transfer from one category of warship to another one year before construction.

ITALY AGAINST U. S.

Ambassador Hugh L. Gibson, voicing the American viewpoint, suggested that light cruisers and destroyers should not be lumped together as they would be under the French plan.

The Italian delegate, Sariani, restated his country's position, favoring the general global system of limiting tonnage as contrasted with limitation by categories, which is favored by America, Great Britain and Japan.

ALL HAVE OBJECTIONS

A British spokesman described the morning's discussions as frank and hopeful, elucidations of various points being of a helpful nature. He declared difficulties which were encountered were not so great as might have appeared on the surface.

Difficulties, he said, undoubtedly would exist, but the more they were discussed the more amenable they tended to become rather than unyielding. The reservations which had been made—and the spokesman called attention that all countries had made certain reservations—"are normal reservations such as would be expected in such situations.

For the first time since its opening two weeks ago the conference saw two sessions sitting simultaneously. The "Big Five" reiterated their intention to continue negotiations through private conversations rather than in general meetings. Favorable progress in ironing out differences was reported.

ITALY IS PUZZLE

Great Britain, Japan and the United States still hold to their original beliefs that limitation by categories without transference is the best scheme. They are willing, however, to consider the French claim.

Italy leans to the French scheme but made it plain today she was not prepared to commit herself prior to fixing of total tonnage limitations. This meant that she still stood for parity with France.

Despite these divergencies of opinion, observers said the outstanding feature of today's meeting was an inclination on all sides to give full consideration to the various views and to strike a compromise.

HERBERT SEEKS CONFERENCE WITH BORAH

Up to Senator to Make Good His Accusation Against Dry Administrator

Washington, Feb. 4 (AP)—The next move in the wordy battle over the appointment of J. F. J. Herbert as prohibition administrator for Montana and Idaho today was apparently up to Senators Borah and Wheeler.

Herbert is in Washington, having been summoned here by Prohibition Commissioner Doran, after Borah and Wheeler had in strong language assailed Herbert's transfer from Baltimore to the West and criticized Herbert himself. Doran made it plain, however, that no charges were pending against him, asserting that his record was clear.

In the meantime, announcement was made by Doran that Frank Flynn, attached to the prohibition bureau, who gave the two Western senators information on which they based attacks on Herbert, had been dropped from the service. The prohibition commissioner said Flynn had been ordered to report to Baltimore, that he had not done so and that in consequence his name had been removed from the government's payroll.

Flynn admitted he gave Borah derogatory information about Herbert, former prohibition administrator at Baltimore, after Borah had said he received his information from a Department of Justice agent. Atty.-Gen. Mitchell denied Justice agents had inquired into Herbert's conduct and it developed then that Flynn furnished the data, Borah being at the time under the impression that he worked for the Justice Department.

Herbert was reported to be planning a conference with Borah and Wheeler today on the charges against him. Sen. Borah said on the Senate floor that if information he had received about the prohibition administrator was correct Herbert should be in the penitentiary instead of directing law enforcement officers.

Herbert has been staunchly defended by Doran and also by Asst. Secretary Lowman who said he was a capable and efficient officer.

taxpayers have found their real estate burdens increased 50 per cent, with the income tax as an additional burden.

Discussion of race suicide cropped out during his argument, when Representative Ralph Otis of Pittsfield, committee member, interrupted to say that if Achin's reasoning with regard to charges for services were followed out to its logical conclusion, the State would levy higher taxes upon large families than on small families.

"Do you approve of that?" Achin was asked.

"I certainly do not desire further taxation along those lines," said Achin. "It would result in race suicide."

TOWNS GET FUNDS

"The income tax money, after supporting an expensive overhead for its administration, is given to the various cities and towns. And they look upon this money as a windfall. In many cases it is spent in supplementary budgets or other extravagances which the local officials would not dare undertake if the money had to be raised direct, locally."

He held that the raising of this money by the state for the municipalities is wrong in principle. The municipalities, he said, would spend less public money if the income receipts were cut off.

He pointed out that the federal government has gradually reduced the income tax and that it was about time Massachusetts followed the example.

Citing the present plight of Chicago, which is reported on the verge of bankruptcy, Coleman Silbert of Boston, member of the special taxation commission which has recommended a general change in the tax law, told the committee that retention of the income tax is necessary if Massachusetts is not to suffer from lack of funds for municipal purposes.

EXPERT IN WARNING

Illinois, he said, was one of the states without an income tax, and he quoted ex-Gov. Lowden of that state as saying recently that some cities would experience trouble in obtaining funds when real estate values were deflated. Silbert said Florida likewise has no income tax and that one Florida city is in the same plight as Chicago.

Heavy Police Guard Thrown Into Garment District in New York

New York, Feb. 4 (AP)—Heavy guards of police and detectives patrolled the garment district today as a strike calling out 35,000 members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union went into effect.

Union officials promised that the general walkout of trade members, aimed at sweatshop conditions, would be orderly. Police said they would not interfere in the strike activities unless the law was violated.

Detectives of the radical squad arrested two men shortly before the strike began. The men, who carried sawed-off billiard cues, were charged with carrying dangerous weapons. They said they were members of one of the union's organizing committees. Dressmakers, cutters, operators, finishers, pressers, examiners, drapers, sample makers and cleaners are involved in the strike order, which took effect at 10 a. m.

May Call Garment Strike in Boston

Leaders of the Boston branch of the Garment Workers' Union said developments in the next ten days will determine whether or not there will be a walkout here.

The local contract of the ladies garment workers with the employers expires on Feb. 15. Leaders said they may call the strike for that date if their demands are not met. Headquarters will be established here Feb. 12, when President Benjamin Schlesinger and Vice-President Max Amdur of the union will arrive in Boston.

Attempt to Corner Rye Called Failure

Chicago, Feb. 4 (AP)—The Chicago Tribune said today that a New England syndicate with nearly 10,000,000 bushels of rye stored in Chicago elevators, had failed in an attempt to corner the market, with a resultant loss of several millions of dollars.

Officials of the Chicago Board of Trade, including President John A. Bunnell, regarded the reports of a corner rather lightly. However, Bunnell admitted that in December all members of the board were ordered to report their individual standings in rye trades, which he said was a precaution against obvious existing long interests.

Besides the cash rye, purchased at prices from $1.25 a bushel and up, the pool also is long on contracts for 10,000,000 bushels more, mostly for March and May delivery, the newspaper said. Futures for these two months are about 22 cents off from the high of the last two weeks.

Large buying orders for rye originating in Providence, R. I., gave an inkling to the local trades that a corner was being attempted.

The approximate 20,000,000 bushels in cash and longs owned by the pool gave them half of the average rye crop of the country, which is between 40 and 45 million bushels, the Tribune said. One of the principals of the syndicate was said to be a young heir to a $25,000,000 fortune.

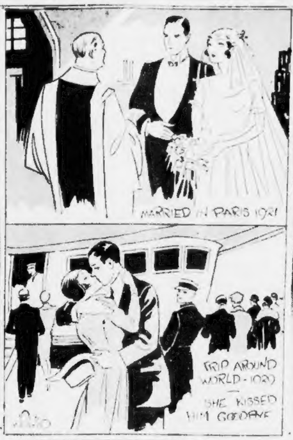
LEEDS AND EX-WIFE KISS AND PART, DENY SPAT OR OTHER WOMAN

William B. Leeds, heir to tinplate millions, was only nineteen, and his royal bride, the former Princess Xenia of Russia, second cousin to the late Czar Nicholas of Russia, only seventeen, when they were married in Paris in 1921.

A later picture shows the happy young couple, who have been separated in a divorce decree granted the princess by Justice Strong at Huntington, L. I., from her multi-millionaire husband, heir to $25,000,000 left by his father, the late "Tin Plate King," and widely known sportsman.



An artist's impressions showing the princess bidding her husband good-bye as he set off on the epic globe-girdling flight of the Grat Zeppelin. A far cry from their brilliant wedding above.

Tinplate-Heir and His Princess Still Pals

By HARRY ACTON
Universal Service

(Copyright, 1930, Universal Service, Inc., and Boston Evening American)

New York, Feb. 4—William B. Leeds, Jr., and his former wife, the Princess Xenia of Russia, kissed and parted—for good.

"Billy," as the heir to the tinplate millions is known, bade his royal blooded ex-wife, "Tommy," his pet name for her, farewell at their town house in Washington Mews.

This was their first meeting since a court at Mineola, L. I., gave the princess a divorce. Congeniality permeated the atmosphere surrounding the celebrated couple. They were in the best of spirits.

They parted with smiles and were amused over the fact that they had "fooled" reporters who had written widely divergent accounts of their marital difficulties. Especially did they ridicule the report of "another woman."

QUARREL DENIED

Before starting on their different pathways through life—young Leeds and the Princess Xenia issued the following exclusive statement to Universal Service and the Boston Evening American:

"The divorce judgment which has been filed was not caused by any quarrels or disagreements. We remain perfectly good friends and expect to remain so, despite the divorce.

"The financial arrangements were a matter of private agreement and the custody of the only child of the marriage was given to the mother, with full right of visitation to the father.

"The princess intends to divide her time between this country and Europe, but the daughter will be brought up and educated in America.

"Nancy, their only child, is five.

"We emphatically deny the divorce was caused by a wish on the part of either of us to remarry. Any rumors to the contrary are absolutely false.

"The Princess Xenia has in no way altered her attitude toward Anastasia, and her espousal of Anastasia's cause was with the full knowledge and approval of Mr. Leeds."

The last paragraph is in answer to rumors the Leeds had come to a parting of the ways as a result of the Princess Xenia's espousal of the cause of Grand Duchess Anastasia, who claims to be a daughter of the slain Czar.

But to go back to the living room of their Washington Mews town house before they issued the statement. The ex-wife and ex-husband are there alone with the exception of two servants keeping watch at the doors to keep the reporters away.

ONLY A STABLE BOY

They're indignant over the reports about them. They've decided they should issue a statement ridiculing those reports. The princess turns to her former husband:

"Why, Billy, we simply must say something to correct these awful things. They're so ridiculous."

And the ex-husband:

"Yes, Tommy, you're right. I guess we must make a statement and have the whole thing over with. And that report about the Princess and Charley Plumb—why, he was a stable boy with us. When the Princess went riding it was only natural someone should accompany her."

"Yes, Billy, we'd better make a statement . . . ."

"Yes, dear, and now let's see—how'll we word it?"

Then, together, they drew up the statement.

And so the ending came between this Princess and "Billy" as he kissed her, patted her on the back and said:

"So long, Tommy, I'll see you soon."

And she said:

"So long, Billy, I'll see you soon."

As the Princess left, Leeds added:

"There's a wonderful kid, all right!"

POWER PROJECT READY SOON

Limerick, Feb. 4—"Where the River Shannon Flows" above Limerick the great dam of the Shannon Hydro Electric Power Co. is nearing completion, a great sweep of concrete above Thomond and O'Brien bridges damming the famous stream to provide light and power for the Irish Free State.

The work was begun in the autumn of 1925. Already more than $15,000,000 has been expended and several millions more will be spent before the gigantic engineering task is completed.

The Shannon has been tapped above O'Brien's bridge at the weir and the outlet is brought along a head race 150 feet wide and 30 feet deep running six and one-half miles to the power station at Ardnacruska.

There the water drops 95 feet to the turbines which have been coupled to three generators developing 90,000 horsepower. The tail race, a mile and a half in length, discharges the filched water back into the river below St. Thomas' Island.

5 Banks Closed in North Carolina

Rutherfordton, N. C., Feb. 4 (AP)—Five Rutherford County banks, with resources of more than two and a half million dollars, closed their doors today.

The conventional notice declared the affairs of the banks had been put in the hands of the State banking department for the protection of depositors.

HIGHER TARIFF SOUGHT ON DYE

Washington, Feb. 4 (AP)—With indications pointing to retention of American valuation as a basis for ad valorem tariffs on coal tar dyes and medicinal products, the Senate began its second day's debate today on the attempt to repeal that section of the bill.

Denying the American market was controlled by a few firms and appealing for no change in the valuation base, Senator Hawes, Democrat, Mo., contended the suggestion of Senator LaFollette, Republican, Wis., to abolish American valuation would give control of the domestic market to "the foreign monopoly."

The late President Wilson, he said, had urged special consideration of dyestuffs and related chemicals after the war with a view to making the United States independent of the German chemical industry.

Under the protection of the present law, he added, there had grown up an industry with $100,000,000 American capital invested in it and which employed "tens of thousands of American workmen."

"It is now proposed," he continued, "to destroy this new industry and give the control of the American market to the foreign monopoly which is in violation of the American anti-trust laws and could not exist in the United States."

Youth Foiled in Attempt to Escape

Webster, Feb. 4 (AP)—Frank Sterczala, 28, broke away from a police officer in district court today and made an unsuccessful attempt to escape, after being held without bail for a hearing Thursday on five charges, including assault and battery, disturbance and drunkenness.

Sterczalla was arrested while in the act of smashing the glass in a door leading to the office of Frank E. Cassidy, clerk of courts.

Dry Agent Killed in Raid; Slayers Held Blameless

ONE more life is sacrificed in the interests of prohibition, this time that of an officer who thought he was dealing with rum runners. The slayers of this officer were not held to be criminals.

The name of Grady Cobb, Federal prohibition agent, of Macon, Ga., figures in reports of three killings received by the Washington Herald in its recent nation-wide checkup of prohibition enforcement casualties.

Officers led by Cobb on July 24, 1923, attempted to search an automobile occupied by Buck Hamby, Frank Jones and Roy Williams, of West Point, Ga. Cobb and Hamby were wounded in the gun battle that ensued, and Gordon Andrews, a member of Cobb's posse, was killed. Other agents with Cobb were Tobe Emory, Garland Ernest and Marion Hogan.

Court action indicated the officers were the aggressors.

This case was investigated by the Atlanta Georgian. Its report states:

"Cobb, Emory, Ernest and Hogan tried on charge of assault to murder. A verdict of guilty, with a recommendation the offense be treated as a misdemeanor, was returned. A new trial was granted, but the case was nolle prossed."

RESCUE 16 ON RINGLING YACHT

Saratoga, Fla., Feb. 4 (AP)—Four passengers and a crew of 12 were landed safely when the palatial yacht Zalophus, owned by John Ringling, circus magnate, struck a rock and sank in 12 feet of water two miles south of here today.

C. V. Moore, a member of the crew, was the only person injured. His right arm was broken.

Capt. Albert Rowan said the yacht struck an uncharted rock in South Pass en route to Useppa Island, near Fort Myers, on a cruise that started about midnight.

The passengers were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gompretz, their niece, Miss Lizette Gompretz and William Grebe, president of the Prudence Bond Co., all of New York.

MISSING MAN IS FOUND DEAD

Sherborn, Feb. 4—The body of John F. Bradley, Natick clothier, missing 10 days, was found today in the woods 100 feet off Farm st., three-fourths of a mile from the spot where his automobile was in collision. The head was bruised and there was a hole in the head.

A automatic revolver was found clutched in the man's hand. One shot had been fired from it. Pending an autopsy by Medical Examiner James Glass and his assistant, Dr. Michael S. Burke, at Framingham the police would not say what caused death.

The body was found by Edward T. Brennan and William McDermott of Natick while fox hunting. The body could be seen from the street, but evidently had escaped police on account of a gray overcoat which looked lik ea rock from a distance.

GALES BATTER SHIP; 15 HURT

New York, Feb. 4 (AP)—The United States liner George Washington was at her pier at Hoboken, N. J., today, having docked three days late after a stormy passage during which 15 passengers suffered cuts and bruises.

The voyage was described by Capt. A. B. Randall, master, as one of the worst he had experienced on the Atlantic. He added that last Thursday and Friday the wind had blown at more than 100 miles velocity, accompanied by hail and snow squalls.

Immediately out of Queenstown the ship ran into a gale. Riding out this storm, the ship proceeded until last Thursday when she was struck by another heavy blow. Passengers said they saw two giant waves, one of which struck the ship on the bow and the second on the beam. The lurching of the vessel threw passengers out of their seats in the smoking room and settees and chairs were hurled across the deck.

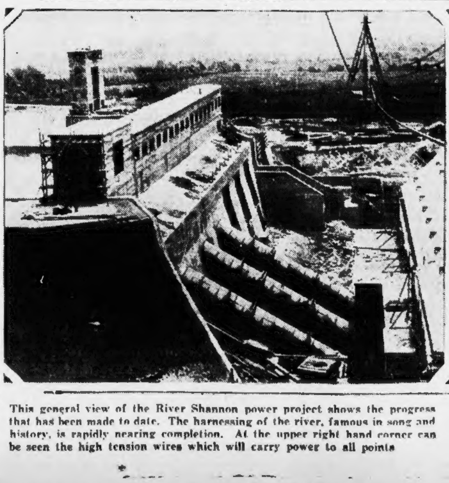
Among the injured was J. S. Smweisman of Hoboken, N. J., who was thrown against a pillar of the smoking room.

Fear 20 Lost Aboard Ice-Imprisoned Ship

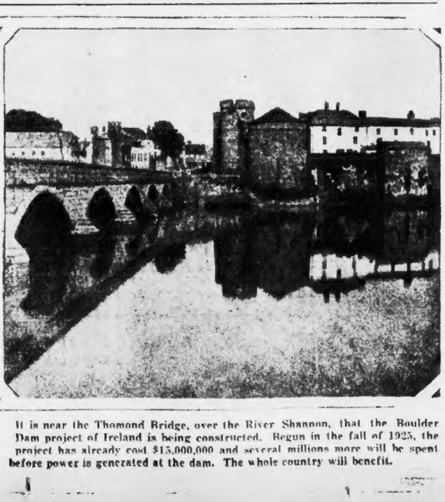
London, Feb. 4 (INS)—Fears that the 20 men in the crew of the Danish steamship Nelly have perished were expressed today in a Central News dispatch received from Stockholm. The vessel has been stranded in the Gulf of Finland since Sunday with all efforts to rescue her frustrated by the ice-laden seas.

The ship from a distance now resembles a block of ice, according to the dispatch, and appears to be slowly sinking under the weight of the ice-crust.

Where River Shannon Is Being Harnessed to Give Irish Cheap Power



This general view of the River Shannon power project shows the progress that has been made to date. The harnessing of the river, famous in song and history, is rapidly nearing completion. At the upper right hand corner can be seen the high tension wires which will carry power to all points



It is near the Thomond Bridge, over the River Shannon, that the Boulder Dam project of Ireland is being constructed. Begun in the fall of 1925, the project has already cost $15,000,000 and several millions more will be spent before power is generated at the dam. The whole country will benefit.

Aid Refused Chicago Because of 'Politics'

Chicago, Feb. 4 (AP)—Until such time as "public officials quit trying to play politics with us," Silas H. Strawn said today, the citizens committee which he heads will not lend financial aid to any of the local governments.

"While the peril from the money shortage has been increasing," Strawn said, "Mayor Thompson and certain other public officials have been trying to play politics by befogging the true conditions with attacks on the reassessment and whatnot."

Of the three governments that are "broke" and behind in meeting their payrolls and other expenses, Cook County is the only one thus far to pledge co-operation to the Strawn group. President Coldwell of the school board and Mayor Thompson have raised objections to the Strawn relief proposals.

Unless something was done today, which appeared unlikely, it will be another week before action can be taken. Strawn will leave tomorrow for Washington, where he will be a White House guest. He will not return, under present plans, until Tuesday, and this will necessitate the temporary suspension of negotiations.

Strawn conferred last night with Alderman Clark, chairman of the council finance committee. Clark, following the meeting, expressed the belief that the committee would provide funds at least sufficient to pay firemen and policemen.

It is estimated that the city will need at least $50,000,000 to "carry on" for the next four months.

George O. Fairweather, assistant business manager of the University of Chicago and a member of the Strawn committee, explained that "the committee is tired of trying to urge public officials to take a hand in combatting the financial crisis.

"Politicians don't seem to realize that at best it will be a herculean task for everybody concerned to keep this city going until July 1, before which no money can be expected from the 1928 taxes."

Funeral services were held in a Danish church here Sunday under the impression that Trans was then being interred near the Outarde river, in whose waters he was imprisoned 69 hours.

DECLARES JURY DUTY UNFIT FOR WOMEN

"Many women are fit for jury service but jury service is unfit for all women," Rep. Sylvia Donaldson of Brockton told the joint judiciary committee of the legislature at the State House today.

The occasion was a hearing in Gardner Auditorium on three bills and that part of Governor Allen's annual address relating to compulsory jury service for women in this state. About 200 women attended.

Brockton's woman representative was the first opponent to be heard. "I am here to oppose all bills that ask compulsory jury service for women," she told the committee.

"I admit many women are fit for jury service but jury service is unfit for all women.

"One of the arguments of the proponents is that the presence of women on the jury will tend to sweeten the disposition of the judges. I ask you gentlemen to pass that remark to every judge in Massachusetts."

She declared it unfair for women lawyers to appeal in support of the issue because they were exempt from duty.

WOMEN ARE OPPOSED

"Who are the proponents? They are brilliant women, I admit, but all themselves exempt. Have I any moral right to force women into this unwelcome service when I am myself exempt?"

"It has been argued that we'll never have justice in this state until we have women jury service. That is an egotistical claim. I am satisfied that the courts of Massachusetts are functioning well and the vast majority of women in the state would be content to leave a case in the hands of a jury of men, and this great army of women, gentlemen, is willing to leave this matter in your hands, satisfied that you will act wisely and well."

The proponents were led by Mrs. George A. Blossom of Worcester, former member of the House.

IN FAVOR OF SERVICE

"Women now take prominent places in the professions, business and politics and it is a logical argument that they should do jury duty," she said. She asked that the committee base its decision on the experiences of other states where women now serve.

Women's views have changed greatly, she pointed out, and they now want to meet every obligation of citizenship.

"We rely on the sense of justice and fair play of the thinking men of 1930. Women's jury service has been vindicated in the states where that service has been extended."

Senator Charles W. Johnson of Worcester said he was glad to support the Governor in his recommendation.

A letter from Andrew J. Peters was read giving the view of the former Boston mayor that the 19th amendment to the federal Constitution gave women equal rights with men and that jury service was not only a right but a duty of active citizenship.

Others recorded in favor were Jessie Lincoln [illegible], Representatives Marcus L. Barrows of Melrose and Maurice Kutchinken of Boston.

"WOMEN AGAINST IT"

Rep. Hanna Arnold of Lowell opposed either optional or compulsory service. "I hope this committee will not be swayed by the 200 or so women here as against the interests of more than 2,000,000 who are attending to the real duties of womanhood."

Rep. William F. Thomas was registered in opposition, and Rep. Twohig, opposing, asked: "If proponents of optional service for women are sincere, why not make it optional for men to serve? This demand is only on the part of the few. If it were submitted to a referendum among the women of the state it would be completely buried."

Approval of optional service was voiced by James F. Powers, member of the Governor's Council.

Shulman, formerly an assistant corporation counsel for the city, who as vigorously urged passage of the bill and defended woman's right to serve on juries. (Staff photos.)

Soviet Sailors Tell Captain What to Do

Halifax, N. S., Feb. 4 (AP)—Gold braid does not bring social distinction in the Soviet merchant marine, or permit a captain to "high-hat" his crew. This discovery left skippers dumfounded today when the Cunarder Aurania arrived with five Muscovite captains and crews, 145 in all, bound for the United States to take over steamers recently purchased from the Shipping Board by the Soviet.

Captains and crews traveled together, third class, to prove the Soviet's theory that the man who walks the quarterdeck is no better than the lads in the fo'castle.

Delegates are assigned to the crews whose duty it is to hear any complaints the men may have and then advise the captain what he is to do.

How the plan will work out in practice remains to be seen, but to mariners of this old port who have always regarded a skipper's rule as absolute, and almost sacred, the idea seemed untenable.

Never since the Brotherhood of the Main was swept from the seas has a member of a crew had so loud a voice in the operation of a vessel. On pirate vessels it was customary for a captain to hold command by consent of his

Gov. Kohler to Face Trial in Vote Case

Madison, Wis., Feb. 4 (AP)—The Wisconsin Supreme court today upheld the constitutionality of the corrupt practices act in its application to elective offices and ordered Gov. Walter J. Kohler tried on charges of violating the act.

Members of the Progressive Republican faction in Wisconsin, political opponents of the Governor, sought his removal from office on the grounds that he violated the corrupt practices act by spending more than $100,000 in his 1928 campaign. The statutes permit the expenditure of $4000.

George Bernard Shaw Calls His Bursts of Anger "Histrionic"

New York, Feb. 4 (AP)—George Bernard Shaw's anger is histrionic. Says a letter:

The letter is one of a number involved in litigation which the magazine Plain Talk contemplates against Shaw. The presses were stopped when Shaw forbade publication. Then the magazine decided it was within its rights in printing the correspondence.

WOMAN BARES WAR HORRORS OF SIBERIA

London, Feb. 4 (INS)—Stories of the fate of prisoners of war in Russia and Siberia from beginning to end of their captivity have just been made public here by Elsa Brandstrom, daughter of the former Swedish ambassador to Leningrad, who believes she was the only neutral who witnessed the horrors that took place.

"During my visit to the Nikolai Hospital," she declared, "I was shown by the head doctor through an enormous ward in which lay 4000 wounded. When we had visited the whole of the Russian section the doctor took me to the 'menagerie,' which meant that part containing the prisoners of war.

OFFICER IS BAYONETED

"The prisoners were much worse off than the Russian wounded.

"A Russian sentry, who stood with fixed bayonet at the entrance to the ward, refused to allow an invalid officer to go to a part of the building a few yards away, although the regulations permitted him to. When the officer tried to force his way past, the sentry ran his bayonet through his back.

"The verdict of the court was singular. The sentry was acquitted, while the severely wounded officer was condemned to six years' hard labor for attacking a soldier on sentry duty. The same sentence was passed on two other invalid officers who had witnessed the incident."

Miss Brandstrom tells in some detail of the terrific toll of lives and suffering which was occasioned whenever the czar wished to inspect the hospitals.

MANY DIE IN WAGONS

"One day in December, 1914, the czar wished to visit the Moscow hospitals," she said. "At midnight all hospitals were ordered to shift the prisoners of war to barracks outside the town. In the middle of the night the sick and the wounded, men who had just been operated on, and the dying, were fetched from their beds. That night cost many lives.

"In December, 1914, about 200 Turkish prisoners suffering from cholera were sent north from the southern front in sealed wagons which were not opened until Penza was reached three weeks later. Sixty men scarcely alive were dragged out; the others had already succumbed.

"Two wagons arrived at Samar with the doors and windows barred and boarded. They were supposed to contain foodstuffs, but inside there were 65 Turks, of whom eight were still alive."

Final Rites for Somerset Priest

Somerset, Feb. 4—The funeral of the Rev. William F. Sullivan, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, this city, for the past 13 years and a priest for 41 years, was held from St. Patrick's Church, here with the Rt. Rev. James E. Cassidy, D. D., vicar general of the diocese and pastor of St. Patrick's Church, Fall River, celebrating the solemn high mass of requiem which followed.

3 Killed in Attack on Mexico Federals

Mexico City, Feb. 4 (AP)—During a rodeo at Ixhuatlan Cillo, Vera Cruz, a band of agrarians headed by the mayor of the town, turned on a federal troop detachment and killed Col. Herman Egildo Rosas, Capt. Zenon Gonzales and one soldier. Troops fought off the attack and captured six of their assailants.

Ex-Skipper Opened 20 Million Oysters

New York, Feb. 4 (INS)—Twenty million oysters and clams opened by one pair of hands! That's the record claimed by Capt. Henry Briggs, oyster and clam opener of the Hotel Vanderbilt oyster bar.

And those hands are just as efficient at their business today as they were 50 years ago, when they opened oysters for "Diamond Jim" Brady, P. T. Barnum, John L. Sullivan, and other notables of the past.

They have seen their share of toil, those hands. More than 50 years ago they felt the fresh pull of the sea on the tiller when Capt. Briggs was sailing a fishing boat out of Camden, Me., his home port. They've been chapped by the bitter winds of the north coast, and toughened by wet ropes soaked in the salty North Atlantic.

Afterward these hands opened oysters, first in the oyster bar of the old Astor house, later at the Vanderbilt.

Those hands have opened oysters for Grover Cleveland, twice President of the United States. President Cleveland was a "good eater," according to the owner of the hands, meaning that the President could sit down to his two dozen oysters anytime and enjoy every last one of them.

STYLES MAY GO OUT IN RUSSIA

Moscow, Feb. 4 (AP)—With an eye to establishing complete equality among its citizenry and of hastening the dawn of pure Communism, the Soviet government is considering adoption of standardized low-priced dresses and shoes for the masses as well as a uniform type of houses, furniture, beds and broken standard forms of food.

Under this system all members of Russian society will be reduced to a common level and there will be no ground for anyone to complain that his neighbor is better clothed, housed or fed than himself.

Under the system there obviously will be no place for women who seek style and distinction in their clothes. There is a movement afoot to abolish feminine dress goods by the yard and to substitue simple standardized costumes for women.

Nominate Two

Franklin, N. H., Feb. 4—Democrats of Ward 2 held a caucus at City Hall and nominated Mayor Dennis E. Sullivan and Councilman Alphonse Lagace for delegates to the constitutional convention in June.

Vote for Sunday Movies

Athol, Feb. 4—Sunday movies were approved by the citizens at the annual town meeting by a vote of 1102 to 1044. Clergymen led the fight against them with a series of sermons.

America Needs Truth, Says Van Doran

Why don't the successful men and women tell the truth about successes? Why do they indulge in generalizations about themselves and their achievements?

Carl Van Doren, editor of the Literary Guild of America and lecturer at Columbia University, speaking on "Language of Experience" before the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts, attempted to answer these queries and a few more about the falsehoods to which Americans are addicted.

He wanted to know why America should be the mother of the "mammy song." He ridiculed the necessity of Mother's Day and mammy songs to exalt mother, as an insult to intelligence.

Successful men are afraid to say they succeeded because they had more brains than the next man for fear of offending their public.

"Or it would embarrass him to say that he has succeeded by virtue of special talents which most men do not possess," Van Doren pointed out. "It might shame him to say that he has been on occasions ruthless and unscrupulous in the pursuit of his desire.

"If we are to speak the language of experience we are obliged to say that the virtues are often over-estimated. Not by their virtues purely do men and women prosper in the world, but also by their craft."

It would be absurd, the speaker pointed out, for Peggy Hopkins Joyce to say that she had succeeded by sincerity, industry, economy and perseverance in her career of beauty.

For she had made a career out of beauty, the editor claimed. Just another instance he said of how people like to mishandle the truth and generalize in the hopes of creating a false impression.

The speaker scoffed at the Washington legend. He pointed out that George Washington was as human as the next man, and that the "corking good story" that he was without lie at anytime was the imagination of a creative poet "who lied to get a good story to prove a point." "That is a charming and agreeable myth," he said.

As for the Puritan and Pilgrim fathers, he said, they, too, were of red blood and corpuscles, with the desire and passion and want for those things which now crown the life of this century.

They pursued the same methods in getting the same things as we do now, he said. He asked that they not be exalted during the Tercentenary celebration, but that they be made human as they were.

He left the women with this message: "Think hard in terms of actual experiences rather than in political hope.

"A contemporary man or woman might read everything that ancient men and women have ever written and still remain unwise. We learn only from what comes close to us, only from danger or joy experienced, and not from advice given in general terms and taken in cold blood."

Others at the head table included Mrs. Franklin W. Hobbs, president; Mrs. Charles Holyoke, director of the art and library department; Bishop Charles Slattery, Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, founder and honorary president of the club; Mrs. William Coolidge, second vice-president; Mrs. William M. Butler, first vice-president; Robert M. Washburn, Ivah Winter, Carl Keller, Richard Fuller, E. A. Weeks and Atty.-Gen. Joseph E. Warner.

DAUGHTERS OF MASSACHUSETTS

"Shall we join the General Federation of Women's Clubs?

"Shall we join the Boston City Federation of Women's Clubs?"

"Shall we have a luncheon at our annual meeting in April?"

These three questions will be taken up and studied at the February 12 meeting of the club, to take place in the Hotel Vendome.

Mrs. Joseph C. Otis, president, will preside. Among the many matters of business to be taken up will be the recommendation from the last informal meeting "that the president appoint a chairman of public health and form a committee to visit women who are Massachusetts born, located in public health institutions in Massachusetts."

A ways and means committee is to be considered. A special committee is to be appointed that the Massachusetts Daughters may have a part in the approaching Tercentenary celebration. Of this committee Mrs. Percival G. Powers is chairman.

At 3:15, after the regular session, Rev. Victor V. Sawyer will address the body and, since the meeting takes place on Lincoln's Day, "Lincoln" will be the subject of his address.

Tea will be served at 4 p. m., with the special guests as pourers: Mrs. William J. McDonald, sixth district director; Mrs. Henry A. Fiske, Mrs. Albin L. Richards, and Mrs. Fred B. Wheeler.

BOSTON HOME INFORMATION CENTER

Every Monday during this month there will be consultant service at the center, 87 Beacon st., between 2:30 and 4 p. m., along the following lines: Mrs. Stewart Lee Garrison, clothing instructor, Garland School of Homemaking; Miss Bernice Cannon of Cambridge; an exhibit of suitable underwear and clothes allowing maximum of freedom in play; Miss Mildred L. Brown, an exhibit of new cotton materials for summer use, and Miss A. Agnes Donham, specialist in income management, who will discuss the spending for clothing and other problems of the homemaker.

Tomorrow and on February 25, at the same time, Miss Marjorie L. Foester, nutrition director, New England Dairy and Food Council, will discuss the problems of the spring and summer with special reference to picnics; and Mrs. Elizabeth G. Lyle, R. N., will talk on the training of the child in right physical habits. Camp cookery lectures come February 11 and 18 also at 2:30. This all comes under consultant service.

There will be a lecture on "your wardrobe" Thursday at 2:30 p. m. with living models for illustration.

BOSTON RUSKIN CLUB

The 111th anniversary of Ruskin's birth and the 30th anniversary of the founding of the club will be celebrated next Monday at 4 p. m. in the Boston Public Library lecture hall. Prof. Agnes Knox Black of Boston University, in memory of her husband, Prof. E. Charlton Black, a club member, will be the principal speaker.

Mrs. Azel A. Packard, State president, will bring greetings from the parent organization. Also among the guests will be Mrs. William J. McDonald, sixth district director, and Mrs. Carl L. Watson, president, City Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Watson is to recite Ruskin's poem, "The Dawn of Peace."

The meeting is an open one and will be presided over by Miss Lilla E. Pelley, president.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY, CANADIAN CLUB

As the annual charity ball on February 13 at the Copley-Plaza draws near the members of the women's auxiliary are redoubling their efforts to bring to a successful conclusion months of untiring response to ball duties.

Mrs. Charles E. Woman is vice-chairman of the general committee. Others working for the affair are Mrs. George H. Hooper, secretary; Mrs. W. Arthur Thompson, treasurer and chairman of ticket committee; Mrs. George F. Miller, chairman of reception committee; Mrs. Rupert D. Foster, chairman invitation committee; George W. McCoy, music committee; Hedley V. Howlett, decorations; Isaac Murdock, refreshment committee; Arthur W. Davis, publicity, and David E. Sprague, floor committee.

NEWTON CENTER WOMAN'S CLUB

The club, presenting for its midwinter show this year "The Color Box Revue," has enlisted the efforts and talents of the young people of the community.

The piece will be presented next Friday and Saturday nights at 8:15 p. m. C. Hassie Capron produced and directed the revue. Miss Sarah Gallagher wrote the music.

General chairmen of the affair include Mrs. John F. Capron and Mrs. Ellis Spear, Jr., and they have had working under them a host of willing women. Miss Virginia Davis, a member of the Junior Woman's Club, designed the cover of a program to be distributed.

The revue is a musicale of two acts and 15 scenes, after which general dancing will be enjoyed by the audience.

INTERNATIONAL INSTITUTE

A short program of music from other lands, followed by a social hour, will feature the informal opening of the International Institute House at 190 Beacon st., tomorrow at 8 p. m. This house, which once housed the Girls' City Club, has been given over to this institute by the trustees of the property without obligation that the Americanization work of the institute might continue. On Saturday at 8 p. m. there will be open house and dancing.

Mrs. Charles H. Danforth, chairman of the department on Inter-Racial Unity for the State Federation of Women's Clubs, and one of the finest exponents of the work in the state, is a prominent worker for the International Institute. I received a special invitation for the opening from Mrs. Danforth and I do hope she reads my thanks through the column.

WOMEN'S CITY CLUB

February has its share of cultural assortments and the club program is replete with activities to satisfy the most fastidious.

The activities department has arranged a well-balanced program. S. K. Ratcliffe, London journalist, and a well-known lecturer on current affairs, will talk to members and guests at Steinert Hall, February 7 at 7:45 p. m. on "The Silent Revolution in England."

On the 12th at the clubhouse at 3:15 p. m. Alain Locke will discuss "Self-Emancipation and the Negro."

Locke is the author of Race Contacts and Inter-Racial Relations. He is the editor of The New Negro, a collection of short stories and poems by modern negro writers.

ROYAL JAPS IN NUPTIAL RITES OLD AS TIME

Tokyo, Feb. 4 (AP)—Using a ritual handed down from an age antedating Japanese written history, Prince Takamatsu, younger brother of the Emperor and Prince Chichibu, and Princess Kikuko Tokugawa, granddaughter of the last Shogun, exchanged marriage vows before the Kashikodoko, sanctuary of the Sun Goddess Amaterasu, in the Imperial Palace.

Dressed in the costumes of the ancient court of the mikados, the young couple bowed before the sanctuary in which is enshrined the Sacred Mirror, symbol of the soul of the goddess, "Divine Ancestress" of imperial line and the Japanese nation. In token of their pledges of faithfulness they exchanged and drank cups of sake, or rice wine, previously sanctified.

The Japanese nation joined the imperial family in celebrating this marriage, which unites the ruling line with probably the most illustrious subject house in the empire.

ACCLAIMED BY CROWDS

It joins a grandson of Emperor Meiji, to whom full reigning power was restored in 1868, to a granddaughter of the 14th and last of the Tokugawa Shoguns, whose renunciation of the actual rule carried on by his ancestors since 1603 marked the end of the feudal age in Japan and the beginning of modern history for the empire.

After the ceremony at the palace, Prince and Princess Takamatsu drove in a brilliantly comparisoned carriage, escorted by troops of the imperial bodyguards and cavalry to the mansion in the southern section of the capital which will be their home. Crowds lined the route in the soft winter sunshine of the cloudless morning.

In April the young "Prince of the Sea," 25 years old, and his 18-year-old bride leave for a wedding journey unprecedented in the annals of the ruling house. They will be the first couple of the immediate imperial family ever to travel abroad together, and in a year's tour will circle the globe.

TO VISIT U. S.

They will not be seen in the United States until early in 1931, although they sail from Yokohama April 21 on the Kashima Maru, reaching Marseilles via Suez on June 1.

First Takamatsu must perform an official mission for the emperor, his brother. Arriving in London June 10, he will be received by King George the following day and thus return the visit to Japan last May of Prince Henry, Duke of Gloucester, who invested Emperor Hirohito with the Order of the Garter.

This mission completed, Takamatsu and his bride will assume a semi-incognito status for a year's travel in Europe and America, although the status of imperial prince and princess may be resumed on the occasions of probable visits to President Hoover and the heads of European states.

Most of their travel year will be spent in France, with only a month in the United States on their way back to Japan.

Horse Car Conductor Dies

Frank J. Remick, 85, who drove a horse car through the downtown section of Lynn for more than 40 years, died at his home in Menlow ave., Lynn, after an illness of nearly a month.

Man in Pittsburgh to Move Auto in N. Y. by Voice

New York, Feb. 4 (INS)—"Forward march!" "Back up!" "Whoa!"

Out in Pittsburgh today H. P. Davis, vice-president of an electric company, will give the above commands or words to that effect and here in New York an automobile in a show window on Broadway will go ahead, back up and stop.

Mr. Davis' voice will set up sound waves in New York as his words travel over long distance telephone wires and these sound waves in turn will be picked up by an electric eye or photo electric cell placed in the trunk in the rear of the automobile. As he speaks the car will obey his commands.

THE introduction of the new Ford bodies has set a new high standard of motor car value. From the new deep radiator to the tip of the curving rear fender, there is an unbroken sweep of line—a flowing grace of contour gaining added charm from the rich and attractive colors. « « « « « «

You will take a real pride in the smart style and fresh new beauty of the Ford just as you will find an ever-growing satisfaction in its safety, comfort, speed, acceleration, ease of control, reliability and economy. In appearance, as in mechanical construction, craftsmanship has been put into mass production. New beauty has been added to outstanding performance.

A feature of unusual interest is the use of Rustless Steel for the radiator shell, head lamps, cowl finish strip, hub caps, tail lamp and other exposed metal parts. This steel will not rust, corrode or tarnish and will retain its bright brilliance for the life of the car. Here, as in so many other important details, you see evidence of the enduring quality that has been built into the new Ford.

COUZENS GIVES MORGAN FIRM CLEAN BILL

Washington, Feb. 4 (AP)—The New York banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. was exonerated today by Chairman Couzens of the Senate interstate committee of "bringing any pressure to bear" in connection with negotiations of the International Telephone & Telegraph Corporation to purchase the communications facilities of the Radio Corporation of America.

After the committee had made public correspondence requested from Sosthenes Behn, chairman of the Telegraph Corporation, concerning the transactions, Couzens said: "I think the Morgan firm acted very diplomatically."

NO FURTHER ACTION

An executive meeting of the committee was called for later in the day to consider whether any further action would be taken, but that was considered improbable.

The correspondence revealed that David Sarnoff and Owen D. Young of the Radio Corporation and N. D. Jay and Thomas W. Lamont of the Morgan Company were in Paris during the negotiations while Behn was in this country.

After proposals had been made by Behn and Sarnoff for the merger, both after extensive correspondence agreed on the terms of sale which provided for transfer of I. T. & T. stock with a par value of [illegible] and a market value at that time of about [illegible] to the corporation. Since that time the value of the stock has declined to about $40,000,000.

URGES AMENDMENT

Behn also urged the committee to recommend amendment of the present law which prohibits merger of radio and cable companies. The I. T. & T. and Radio Corporation merger has been held up pending government approval.

The committee today heard Henry A. Barnhart, president of the Indiana Telephone Association, testify that there was "neither occasion nor consistent demand" for centralized control in Washington of telephone companies doing interstate business.

The Couzens bill, which is being considered by the committee, would group control of radio, telephone, telegraph and cable facilities under a government commission.

Hoover Will Name Haiti Commission

Washington, Feb. 4 (AP)—President Hoover said today he would immediately appoint a commission of five or seven to study the question of when and how the American Government would withdraw from Haiti.

course in chemical engineering. Scientific knowledge increases so rapidly that men determined to keep up must go back to school at intervals, or read intensely.

At the beginning of the century, serious chemists agreed that the science of chemistry had gone about as far as it could be expected to go, ever, and in the last 30 years chemists have learned 10 times as much as they had learned in the thousands of years before 1900. There is no limit to their knowledge. The earth will last millions of millions of years longer, and we are only 12,000 years from the late stone age. How much shall we know, say in the year 3,000,000?

Speaking of knowledge and science, will some engineer or pump maker send to this writer, care Los Angeles Examiner, information as to the possibility of removing sand from the bottom of a dug well. By suction or otherwise there should be something better than the old-fashioned sand bucket. Information received will be handed on to other well owners.

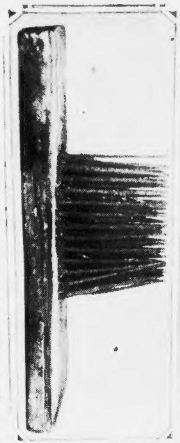
On Sunday in Los Angeles the old-fashioned Chinese celebrated the New Year in the old style. Modern China takes over our calendar, new year and all. Some Chinese think that they may offend the gods. Conspicuous in the celebration was the "Chinese lion," carried on men's shoulders, doing a fantastic dance on a rope-enclosed platform. The dance lasted for hours. When it was over, the lion collected money and food. He was not a real lion of course. Old fashions are vanishing. It is thought that China's New Year lion will never dance again in this country.

Other cities will want to know of Detroit's plan for catching criminals by radio. As soon as reported, each burglary, holdup, etc., is broadcast. Policemen in fast automobiles, equipped with receiving apparatus, dash to the scene of the crime and often capture the criminals fleeing with their plunder.

Antique a Day

No. 14

Here's a relic of Evangeline land, according to its present owner, Charles di Pesa of 29 Crescent ave., South Braintree. The picture shows an ancient comb used for dressing flax, which was owned at one time by the great-great-grandfather of Peter Galant of Weymouth. It bears the date 1647, and came from Acadia, now Nova Scotia, when that land was a French possession. The Acadians were driven from their homes in 1755 for refusing to take the oath of allegiance to England and many of them were transported to Louisiana. This historic tragedy inspired Longfellow's famous poem. More facts concerning this quaint implement and its authenticity will be discussed by an expert tomorrow.



The Colonial chair shown in yesterday's American, owned by Mrs. J. L. Rutledge of Medford, bears every evidence of great age. It is one of several in Mrs. Rutledge's home. The reed seat has been replaced by woven cord apparently many years ago. The stretchers show the wear of many generations of feet which have rested on them. Museum pieces of similar type date from the 1690's.

In connection with the Massachusetts Tercentenary Year the Boston Evening American will publish from day to day interesting specimens of authentic antiques. Readers possessing genuine antiques, particularly articles of Colonial or early American origin or of historic association, are invited to forward photographs and records for publication. In case no photograph is available, the American will send one of its staff cameramen to photograph your antique if you live in Greater Boston. Material should be addressed to "Antique Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston."

STOLE A PLANE AND FLEW AWAY

Cornelia, Ga., Feb. 4 (AP)—Milton E. O'Connor, charged with the theft of an airplane from Fairfax, Va., was arrested and placed in jail at Clarkesville, Ga.

Deputy Sheriff Jesse Everett said the plane had made a forced landing in a cotton field one mile from Cornelia and that O'Connor was arrested when he returned for it. Motor trouble caused the forced landing, Everett said.

Another man was with O'Connor but was not arrested. The plane was only slightly damaged.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

Needless Suffering

The next time a headache makes you stay at home—

Or some other ache or pain prevents your keeping an engagement—

Remember Bayer Aspirin! For there is scarcely any pain it cannot relieve, and relieve promptly.

These tablets give real relief, or millions would not continue to take them. They are quite harmless, or the medical profession would not constantly prescribe them.

Don't be a martyr to unnecessary pain. To colds that might so easily be checked; to neuritis, neuralgia; to those pains peculiar to women; or any suffering for which Bayer Aspirin is such an effective antidote.

For your own protection, buy the genuine. Bayer is safe. It's always the same. It never depresses the heart, so use it as often as needed; but the cause of any pain can be treated only by a doctor.

'OLD 26 P. C.' BROKE, CRAZED AND IN JAIL

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Feb. 4 (INS)—When the doors of the state hospital for the insane at Independence close on George E. Huckins, of "26 per cent interest" fame, today, the last chapter, so far as he is concerned, in a $3,000,000 get-rich-quick deal probably will be written.

Huckins has been declared insane by the Linn County insanity board. Dr. Frank S. Skinner, chairman, told Judge Ring that he does not believe Huckins will live long. Dr. Skinner said Huckins was a drug addict and that his constitution had been so weakened from narcotics he did not hold out much hope for him.

He goes to the asylum as a pauper. He had a wonderfully furnished home, several motor cars, kept a retinue of servants and his wife and daughter moved in the highest social circles.

Today they are reported to be working in Chicago to support themselves and Huckins hasn't a dollar to his name. All his personal effects have been attached and a retail cigar business is in the hands of the bankruptcy court.

County Attorney Hendrickson announced today that he would continue the prosecution of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer S. Huckins of Hancock, the parents of George, who are under indictment here for obtaining money under false pretenses.

MAWSON FINDS STRANGE FISH IN ANTARCTIC

By SIR DOUGLAS MAWSON

Commander of the British, Australian and New Zealand Antarctic Research Expedition.

S. S. Discovery, Antarctic, Jan. 28 (Delayed)—The last several days we have been busy running marine section of the expedition in full detail from the Enderby Land coast into the deep basin of the southern ocean.

This necessitates the conducting of a number of stations at successive stages as we draw away from the land. Today's position was latitude 63.50 south, longitude 54.16 east, placing us almost directly due north of Cape Anne, Enderby Land. Our operations are being conducted at a depth of 5354 meters.

Special features of our discoveries have been the richness in nekton (small swimming marine organisms) in the water 1000 meters below the surface, and the large quantities of fish seized, some of which are of quite extraordinary form. Among the curious examples we have found both fish and small cephalopods that are quite colorless and transparent except for their glowing eyes and their silvery stomach sacks.

Today we found an abundance of [illegible] whales, one of which we shot as it lay almost full length out of the water. As we were unable to detect the presence of any enemy we decided that he had been impelled by the pure joy of life into rising into the glorious calm sunshine.

Icebergs are plentiful, even at this distance from the coast, but, whereas they are compact and tabular in the continental shelf water, here, in somewhat warmer waters, they show evidences of decadence, being reduced to spired and turreted forms often of striking grandeur. We have just passed one 250 feet high.

9 out of 10 Screen Stars keep their skin petal-smooth with Lux Toilet Soap

Hollywood · Broadway · and now all the European Capitals acclaim it

THE GIRL whose skin is smooth and lovely, so that people inevitably turn to admire her, has the gift of attracting romance!

"There's amazing allure in beautiful smooth skin"—as Carl Laemmle, Jr., says.

"Lovely skin is the one charm every star must have. Make-up is little help under the glare of close-up lights. The skin itself must be exquisite."

This is the conclusion of 45 leading Hollywood directors who know from long experience with motion pictures just which kind of beauty has the strongest appeal for the great public.

The charming screen stars found out long ago that by using Lux Toilet Soap they can keep their skin always smooth and soft.

Of the 521 important actresses in Hollywood, including all stars, 511 are devoted to it. Also, all the great film studios have made it the official soap for their dressing rooms.

The Broadway stage stars are equally enthusiastic about this white, delicately fragrant soap. And now, too, in France, in Germany, in England, the lovely European screen stars are using this soap.

Are you using Lux Toilet Soap? You will find that it keeps your skin just as exquisitely smooth as it keeps the stars'. And how luxuriously it lathers, even in the hardest water!

You'll love it. Order several cakes—today.

LAURA LA PLANTE, beloved Universal star, uses Lux Toilet Soap both in her own beautiful bathroom and in her dressing room on location. She says: "Lux Toilet Soap gives my skin the same marvelous smoothness the finest French soaps do."

(Left) PATSY RUTH MILLER, a charming star, whose skin is always exquisite, says: "I am delighted with Lux Toilet Soap. It keeps my skin petal-smooth!"

(Below) EVE SOUTHERN, beautiful star with Tiffany Productions, Inc., is enthusiastic about Lux Toilet Soap—just as 511 of the 521 important actresses in Hollywood are. She says: "Of course, every woman wants a lovely skin—but for a star it is essential. Lux Toilet Soap keeps my skin beautifully smooth."

MAINE FIGHTS QUOTA RULE FOR CANADA

Washington, Feb. 4 (AP)—The opposition of Maine to restriction of Canadian immigration was laid before the House Immigration Committee by the congressional delegation of that state.

Representatives Nelson, Beedy, White and Snow testified that they saw no necessity for placing Canada under the quota system and if such a system were established they asked that some provision be made to allow the temporary entry of skilled, seasonal laborers.

Skilled workers were essential at certain seasons for the lumber and paper manufacturing industries, they said.

James O. Guinac of Bangor, Me., also opposed restriction, explaining that Maine's native population was being drawn by other states and that Canadians were needed to take the place of the migrating natives.

If Congress placed a quota limit on Canadians, he added, the quota should be large because these aliens make good citizens and were needed.

Canadian labor was necessary to the paper mills and potato growers, he continued, adding that the lack of a tariff on newsprint paper placed American mills at a great disadvantage.

Mills across the border paid only about $6.50 a cord for pulp wood, while American mills paid $16. If Maine mills were to compete successfully, he asserted, they must have Canadian labor.

DOCTORS FEAR TAFT WILL DIE

unable to walk unaided on leaving the train, and as soon as he reached his home by automobile he was put to bed.

The former chief justice's friends placed a hope in the fact that the lightening of the burden of Supreme Court duties might serve to aid Mr. Taft toward recovery.

Dr. Hagner said no plans had been made to summon members of his family who reside outside of city.

Ill as he was, the former Chief Justice was dressed when his train reached Union Station at 7:05 a.m., but he remained in his drawing-room while his car was being transferred to a level nearer the street.

AIDED STEP BY STEP

Gently, the doctor asked Mr. Taft to get to his feet, but it was necessary for several others to assist him. Step by step, Dr. Hagner and his aides guided the footsteps, once firm and vigorous, as the sick man left the train. A trained nurse, Miss Gertrude Manifold, who has been with Mr. Taft throughout his illness, always was nearby.

After Mr. Taft reached the car vestibule he was held by stalwart hands until other attendants could bring a straight-backed chair into which he was eased. Then the chair was picked up by three men who lowered it gently down the steps to the station platform and then the patient was placed in a wheel chair.

Dr. Hagner said: "That's rather a tight fit, but it won't be for long."

A trace of the famous Taft smile lighted the pale and drawn face for an instant and his eyes seemed almost to twinkle, but the lids quickly drooped again. Occasionally and with apparent effort Mr. Taft opened his eyes to look about, but he spoke to none of those who gathered to meet him.

The chair was rolled slowly to where the automobile of Associate Justice Sutherland, and old friend and colleague, awaited.

Mr. Taft was greeted with a series of explosions from photographers' flashlights. He seemed momentarily startled but, veteran of many such experiences, he quickly regained his composure.

When he reached his residence he was taken to the side entrance, where he had installed and electric elevator several years ago when he was first afflicted with heart trouble.

Dr. Hagner again experienced difficulty in moving the feet of his patient so that he could leave the automobile, and he literally was carried into the house.

Coolidge Compliments Both Taft and Hughes

Mount Dora, Fla., Feb. 4 (AP).—Former President Calvin Coolidge, who is here on a vacation, said today that "everyone will regret that the ill health of Chief Justice Taft has made it impossible for him to remain at the head of the Supreme Court of the United States."

"He is the only man," Mr. Coolidge said, "who has filled the office of President and chief justice of the United States. His service has been so long and distinguished that he is entitled for that reason alone to retire. I have known of his failing health for several years, but his wonderful courage and cheerfulness made him determined to remain in the service of the people as long as he could.

"I have said before that this is not a one-man country. This event has again demonstrated it. The country has found a man of experience, learning, ability and character so well equipped for the office of chief justice of the United States in Charles Evans Hughes, that we may feel confident the public welfare will be conserved and the high character of our court of last resort will be maintained. This generation has been fortunate to command the services of two such men in such varied positions of importance."

Muddy Feet on Street Car Seats Nuisance

Editor Boston American:

Why is it that many mothers allow their children with dirty shoes, mud gathered from the streets, to go into street cars and stand on seats? Is not the floor of the car the most natural standing place?

Why should older people be compelled to sit down in such places soiling their clothes and becoming almost a mop for thoughtless mothers?

On a rainy day this is one of the disagreeable features of street cars, and a little care and respect for the rights of others who have to occupy seats would correct the nuisance.

England Leaning Toward Equality of Sexes

Editor Boston American:

A friend has written me from England that men are beginning to obey women over there more than ever in the history of that country. The Women's National Union, meeting recently at Canterbury, this letter says, passed resolutions that all avenues of promotion should be open to women equally with men; that the best candidates, irrespective of sex, should be appointed to administrative positions and that men and woman of equal status should have equal pay.

She wanted to make public some of the contents of her letter on this subject in order to stir up the questions whether men should obey women and whether women should receive equal pay with men for the same kind of work? Then this final question: Whether the United States will have a woman for President?

Would Apply Death Penalty to Insane Slayers

Editor Boston American:

How much better it would be to use preventive measures to curtail crime. There is the expense to the country to be always considered.

Abolition of capital punishment has been advocated by many, but personally I think the death penalty should be imposed more frequently. I would execute all insane murderers. Hanging is gruesome, barbarous for the victim and terrible for the innocent relatives. But put the murdering ones to sleep. Further, I would give every condemned prisoner the privilege of being his own executioner. If he fails to avail himself of this privilege, then it would be done for him.

Light Clothing Urged As Means of Health

Editor Boston American:

That reference to sunlight in your paper and its influence upon health cannot be overestimated. Dr. Leonard Hill, director of the National Institute of Medical Research in London, is the leading authority on the curative powers of sunlight.

He recently advised men to abandon heavy clothing and wear light garments as women do. To the woman who would be healthy and beautiful he urged: "Wear short skirts and artificial silk stockings and above all leave your arms bare."

I quote in part his advice as opposed to that law about women's dresses put forth in the 17th century quoted a few weeks ago in your Letters to the Editor. The idea of any city, town or village dictating what women should wear.

Offers Suggestion for Better El Service

Editor Boston American:

I have some criticism to offer regarding Boston Elevated service, and I offer this in a constructive manner, because I know hundreds of people daily are complaining. I refer principally to the route from Eliot sq., Roxbury, to Brookline Village.

The cars are very slow, and often we have to wait 26 minutes before service is given. Even then, the cars are insufficient to carry the crowds. We are packed inside in an unhealthy and unsafe manner. Often I ride in a packed car, and then see four or five empty ones trailing in a few minutes later.

May I offer a suggestion for better service? Operate a bus from Dudley st. terminal, especially during the busy hours of morning and night. This should go through Ruggles st. and over through the Parkway, crossing Huntington ave. to the junction of Brookline ave. and Boylston st. From there it should go on up Brookline ave. to Kenmore sq.

This would give the people around Dudley st. and other adjacent points much better and direct service. As it is now, we have to cruise half-way around the city to reach Kenmore sq.

Says Social Distinctions Equality of Men

Editor Boston American:

When that phrase in the Declaration of Independence is read every Fourth of July, to the effect that all men are created free and equal, I feel like yelling, "Tain't so."

If the document said: "All men want an equal chance," I would assent. But all persons created free and equal tempts one to join the Ananias club. With all this agitation to take the sting out of the 18th amendment, I would like to see the Declaration of Independence brought up to date and in accordance to what we see in social circles right here in the Hub. All we of the younger generation want is a chance. We are trying to make it, but social distinction often stands in our way.

JOHN HENRY TRACY.

Thinks Youth Wiser Today Than of Yore

Editor Boston American:

I went up to a meeting a short time ago on Joy st. and listened to an address on "Petting Parties." The speaker flayed automobiles as carriers of more evil into modern life than any other agency. Other people wagged their tongues about the wild antics of youth today.

I do not believe the automobile is any more demoralizing than that old buggy that used to come creaking up to the door of the home of days gone by, when you and I were in our teens. Youth is wiser today and more moral than youth of a generation or more ago. There is no stampede of youth in these times.

HENRY T. TINKHAM.

Defends Education System of South

Editor Boston American:

That statement in which Mrs. Eugora R. Richardson of Richmond, Va., recently told educators of the North that the South is lacking in education and that rural children do not get the chance they deserve, is too sweeping to be true.

I know Dr. A. E. Winship of Boston, the best informed man on educational advantages in the United States, thinks differently than Mrs. Richardson. The South turns out better educated men than any other section of this country. Now this is said, not loosely or without evidence; it is said because the educational systems in the South seem to do more for pupils in preparing them for their future success.

They do more with vocational education down there or make more evident its results than is done up North. I am not saying anything against education in the North, but I am defending what we are doing in the Southland.

American to Die for London Murder

London, Feb. 4 (INS)—James Achew, alias James Starr, who claims to be an American citizen of no fixed abode, must die on the gallows for the murder of Sybil Sarah Da Costa, an Englishwoman found beaten to death in her London home.

The court of criminal appeals has dismissed Achew's appeal against the death sentence.

STANDARD OIL MAINE RIVAL ATTACKED

Portland, Me., Feb. 4 (AP)—The Standard Oil Company of New York, Inc., in an action brought before United States District Court today sought to restrain the Standard Oil Company of Maine, Inc., from doing business under that name.

The action also asks restraining order against E. Maynard Thompson, E. P. Thompson and I. S. Kearney, incorporators of the new concern, and seeks damages from them.

According to the petition of the New York corporation, the Maine company may do one of two things, vote to dissolve or change its name.

The petition alleged that similar corporations had been formed in eight other States at the instance of Harry Starr, a New York attorney, and Aaron Sapiro, New York capitalist.

The petition contended that the Maine corporation was similarly named to deceive purchasers of gasoline and automobile oils.

Papers of incorporation were filed at Augusta in September, 1929. The concern has not yet begun business.

George Hearst Plans Air-Highway Laws

Sacramento, Cal., Feb. 4—With a view to coordinating enforcement of air and highway transportation statutes, George Hearst, publisher of the San Francisco Examiner, has been appointed by Gov. C. C. Young as liaison representative between the state department of public works and the aviation industry.

Hearst is to work out a program to meet present law enforcement problems, it was announced, taking into consideration the existing state motor vehicle and aviation laws and the position occupied by the new state highway patrol, department of public works, with relation to them.

Public works officials said results of the investigation and recommendations may be presented to the next Legislature.

A legislative committee already is considering problems affecting aeronautics in California, and it was expected Hearst's study of the situation will include conferences with this group as well as with State authorities and representatives of the aviation industry.

Children Fought Raiding Police

Manchester, N. H., Feb. 4—Testimony by members of the liquor squad was given at the trial of Mrs. Marie Page of Orange st., charged with keeping liquor for sale, second offence, to the effect that her children, a boy and girl, met them with a barrage of household appliances.

The boy, it was charged, threw a flatiron at the officers, while the girl hit one of the officials with a broom. The respondent was found guilty, fined $100 and costs, and was given three months in the house of correction. Appealing, she was held in $500 bail for Superior court.

PHONE CALL GETS "RIGHT NUMBER"

MISS ROSA POZZI

Father learns about cough medicines

"Is this the Driving Park Drug Store?" phoned Mr. P. Pozzi of 1270 Thomas St., Memphis, Tenn. "My wife and my daughter have both got coughs and nothing they've used did them any good. What cough medicine can you recommend?" he continued. "Why don't you try REM" came the answer over the phone. Mr. Pozzi decided it was worth trying, and it surely proved to be. He himself adds "It worked like magic and soon stopped the coughs." Many others who have used REM think it "works like magic" too, but there's really no magic about it. Just a remarkably good formula, developed out of 44 years' pharmaceutical experience. Try it yourself, next time you get a cough!

REM's exclusive formula explains its splendid results. Economical, too!

AIR TRIBUTE TO DEAD PILOT PLANNED

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

Another one of [illegible] gone [illegible] But such is the price of progress.

And the flying companies at the airport [illegible] the memory of Carey [illegible] Pridham, Boston-New York mail pilot who was killed at Brainard Field, Hartford.

After convincing ourselves that Carey was really gone we [illegible] our usual [illegible] at [illegible] the airport asking the operations managers to send as many ships as they could into the air at 2 o'clock tomorrow when the funeral services will be held. Flowers will be dropped by the leader of the formation of approximately 11 ships over Carey's grave in Lexington Cemetery.

Pridham's body arrived at the South Station in charge of "Doc" Kincaid of the Colonial mechanical staff and was immediately taken to Carey's late home on Fellen [illegible], Lexington, where his widow and three children awaited his arrival.

The force of the blow of Carey's passing was [illegible] this [illegible] because his home was being decorated for a farewell party Carey was giving to [illegible] of Skyways who [illegible] for the West Coast.

The [illegible] Mrs. Pridham had not begun to be [illegible] when [illegible] looked about her and [illegible] the preparation that has been made for the party.

Instead of a [illegible] of the airport boys there was a sorrowing group there when we arrived. To be sure the crowd who had been invited to the party were there but it was a different kind of a farewell party [illegible] what we mean.

[illegible] who read this column every day will perhaps remember that we wrote last Friday about [illegible] testing the radio beacon on the regular morning trip up from New York flying in and above the clouds which were sitting at about 1400 feet. He found the beacon working perfectly and told us that there was only one thing left of which he had any fear, and that was ice.

For what can anyone do when the fog is laying on the airport one is trying to reach? Jimmie Doolittle, the famous army flier, who [illegible] blind flying in a [illegible] over Mitchel Field a few [illegible] ago, is now connected [illegible] company and hasn't [illegible] for thick, soupy weather.

So if you see a squadron of commercial airplanes flying over Lexington tomorrow afternoon, and several sheafs of flowers falling over the cemetery, you will know that Carey is receiving the last honor of the airman, which corresponds to the military rites of a volley of rifle fire, and the playing of taps.

CALL OF SPRING

From up on the North Shore, we learn that Bob Bernson, general manager of North Shore Airways is having the company's Buhl Airsedan completely overhauled, from the rudder to the prop.

The motor, a Whirlwind J5, is being renovated by East Coast Aircraft Corp. and the plane part of it will be [illegible] by a chap whose name [illegible] for the moment. However, the ship in which Carey [illegible] set the New England cabin plane altitude record of over 17,000 feet about a year ago will shortly be ready for a busy season at Beverly Airport.

The flock of Arrow sportplanes owned by the company are sitting in the hangar at Beverly waiting for the call of spring before being galvanized into action under the skillful guidance of Lyla "Slim" Halstead, chief pilot of the company.

Vivacious "Billie" N[illegible]on, one of the girl students on the books of North Shore Airways, along with the other best girl student, Dolly Bernson, is counting the day until the winter has passed, and the air will call again.

Bernson stated that the Buhl will be fitted with a public address system for air announcements, a la "voice of the air" or something, and that many contracts are being lined up for this aerial advertising.

Incidentally, an air meet should be on the books for Beverly airport this summer, and when we learn more about the layout we will tell you the date.

COUNTRY CLUB PLANS

Boston may have an Aviation Country Club after all. Fred Ames, president of East Coast, and Crocker Snow, president of Skyways, went down to the Aviation Country Club of America's field in Hicksville, L. I., in the former's Travel Air monoplane to talk the situation over.

Both boys being members of the organization, they didn't have much trouble to receive sanction from the big guns in the club to start laying plans for a club in these parts.

First of all, a suitable site must be selected and then actual work of organizing the outfit will begin.

Yeh, the hangar still stands in the middle of the field, and it might, notice the MIGHT, be moved within the next two weeks. Be that as it may.

It's been a long, tough grind for the past couple of months, since we started the campaign to get it out of there, which campaign has been picked up more or less by the rest of the air writers in this village, but perhaps it was worth it.

Chicago Bandits Pose as Police; Get $20,000 Loot

Chicago, Feb. 4 (INS). Bandits posing as [illegible] invaded the home of Edward Mallers, well known [illegible] at Kenilworth [illegible] North Shore suburb [illegible] terrorized [illegible] house-hold for ten hours, systematically collected jewelry [illegible] clothing and [illegible] and escaped with loot valued at more than $20,000 today.

The men drew guns and herded the maid, nurse, cook and two Mallers children into a bedroom. When Mr. and Mrs. Mallers arrived home from a late dinner party they too were forced into a bedroom while the robbers ransacked the house.

gambling houses but said that for the present, they could give out no facts to substantiate this and added that Harris' record [illegible] tend to discount such a theory.

Harris, clad in his night clothes, was found dead in his bunk aboard the CG-132 early Sunday morning. A 45-caliber automatic pistol was at his side. One shot had been fired and had passed through his right temple.

Because the gun was not his own, a tentative theory of murder was accepted. Investigation, however, led [illegible] to believe it a case of suicide and the shooting was kept secret out of deference to his wife and family, according to Commander James A. Alger, commanding officer of the force operating out of Base 5, Boston.

Commander Alger said it was believed Harris left his bunk in the night and went to the armory aboard the boat. This room was kept unlocked. He took the first gun his hand fell on, returned to his berth and shot himself, in the opinion of coast guard probers. There was one other man aboard the boat that night, but his identity has not been disclosed.

When the court of inquiry reaches a complete decision its findings will be forwarded to Washington. Medical Examiner George Burgess Magrath of the Suffolk County north district made an autopsy.

He was 30 and is survived by his widow, Mrs. Anne [illegible] Pridham, and three children, [illegible] and Barbara and Petty, twins of 15 months.

He learned to fly during the war with the Royal Air Force and afterwards barnstormed through the South with George Haldeman, who flew with Ruth Elder on their transatlantic attempt.

He came to Boston in 1924 and after working for some time as an insurance claim agent and salesman for a rubber company he became chief pilot for the W[illegible] Savage Aircraft Co.

He joined the passenger [illegible] of Colonial in July of last year and in October transferred to the mail.

How a Girl Helped Her Affianced in His Business

From Marion Davies' forthcoming all-talking picture by Wanda Tuchok and Edwin Justus Mayer, based on the play, "Dulcy," by Marcus Connelly and George Kaufman.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

Dulcy was an adorable blonde who was always helping people—but who usually helped them into trouble. A quarrel with Gordon, her fiance resulted from her determination to help him put over a business deal. Over his protests she went to the train with him to meet Forbes, a financier, and invited him and his family to her house for a week-end.

Now read on.

So great was the excitement to see the two girl defendants that when the court house was opened at [illegible] today the corridors were immediately filled and extra police were required to handle the crowd.

The defendants were also in court for the theft of an automobile and James Burnett, indicted with them, pleaded guilty to the charge.

MOTHER FAINTS

At previous sessions Barnes and [illegible] testified that Budd and [illegible] entered the drug store [illegible] ordered hot chocolate. SAYS POLICE BEAT HIM

Mrs. Reynolds was removed from the courtroom to an adjoining room [illegible] she was given first aid.

Following the testimony of [illegible] who was captured shortly after the robbery, Budd took the stand.

With the other defendants he fled to New York and was arrested there. He also charged that he was beaten by police at the time of his arrest.

MOTHERS SAVE 3 TOTS IN FIRE

Three children, one asleep and another ill in bed, were rescued by their mothers today during a fire in the three-story wooden house at 27 Linden st., Lynn.

The fire, starting from an overheated stove on the third floor, worked down through the partitions to the first floor and caused $2400 damage before [illegible].

At the height of the blaze [illegible] Chief Edward E. Chase responded to the frantic pleas of Mrs. Williams, groped his way up through the smoke to her second floor apartment and salvaged her pocketbook containing $75.

The fire started in the apartment of Edward Maley, who was out, and was discovered by Priscilla Anderson, seven, who was in bed on the first floor, recovering from an operation yesterday for tonsils and adenoids.

Priscilla screamed when she saw smoke issuing from her bedroom closet. Her mother rushed in and opened the closet only to be greeted by a cloud of smoke.

Picking up the sick girl, her mother carried her and her four-year-old sister Dorothy out to the home of a neighbor. Then she ran back and notified Mrs. Williams. Mrs. Williams picked up her daughter Doris, four, and carried her to the street.

Firemen were forced to tear out a considerable section of the wall before they could drown out the blaze.

"Babes in Toyland," fourth in the current presentations of the Victor Herbert Festival, brought almost forgotten days of comic opera back to the Majestic last night. Perhaps the most fantastic of the popular productions in which Victor Herbert presided as composer, "Babes in Toyland" renewed its youth and gaiety in no uncertain fashion. An audience, both distinguished and enthusiastic, gave instant approval to its timely revival. It will be reviewed in Wednesday's Boston Evening American.

PUT THE WYNN IN WINNING THE LAUGH

ED WYNN, buffoon of the funny hats, outlandish costumes and infectious giggle, who is appearing in Florenz Ziegfeld's "Simple Simon" at the Colonial, grew quite serious as he stood during a lull backstage.

"When I grew to manhood," said the comedian, "I had four ambitions. Three of these I have achieved and the fourth is within my reach, but I have changed my mind about that. First, I wanted to be a star. Second, I wanted to be my own playwright. Third, I wanted to be the producer of my own shows. My fourth ambition was to own my own theatre.

"Having accomplished the first three, the fourth naturally involved the question of money, which now, if I so choose, makes the ownership of a playhouse an easy matter. I have decided against it though, in favor of a newer and greater ambition. When I die I want to be mourned as the nation's jester.

"Of course this is only a dream. Nations somehow, do not regard their jesters seriously. They laugh at their antics, applaud their tomfoolery and repeat their jests. When the jester passes on the public speaks in whispers and says 'Too bad.'"

Ed Wynn is naturally a serious man. All great comedians are [illegible]

[illegible] name of comedian. This, it must be said, is my own analysis of myself. Perhaps I'm wrong."

Boston Society in Brilliant Display at Opening of Grand Opera Season

LATEST IN FASHIONS ARE SEEN ON PARADE

WHEN THE FIRST NOTE of "Die Walkure" was called to the rise of Egon Pollak's baton at the premiere of the Chicago Civic Opera's repertoire last evening Boston's brilliant social set struck a full rounding chord of formality, similar to that au courant previous to the World War. Dictates of fashion, long since neglected by smart feminity and its escorterie, were followed to the very last letter in the attire that graced those seated in the ultra fashionable "horseshoe" of boxes and throughout the orchestra. The panorama that greeted the eye was resplendent with dazzling Parisian gowns and sparkling jewelry and men in full dress. Scarcely a one left his box during the first intermission, but all hastened to the promenade as the curtain fell upon the second act.

A PARTICULARLY LOVELY picture in a modish white lace frock was Miss Barbara Welch, who stepped forth with Monsieur Gilbert d'Anvers from the box taken by her mother, Mrs. Roger Wolcott and Mr. Wolcott, together with Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Coolidge, for the season, and which is marvelously situated in the center of the semi-circle. Two boxes to their right was the B. H. Bristow Draper box. It so happened that Mrs. Draper and her two friends and guests, Mrs. Gelston T. King and Mrs. Henry C. Everett, were all gowned in differing but charming white models. White seemed to be particularly au fait, judging from Miss Barbara Proctor, whose Titian beauty was well set off by it, with the added touch of an exquisite bouquet of orchids pinned to her shoulder, and by that popular post-debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hill Thorndike, Miss Winifred Thorndike, whose white chiffon with the natural waistline, was smart indeed.

MANY OF THIS SEASON'S buds were noticeable here and there some accompanied simply by their mothers, others in groups of their contemporaries with whom they had been dining. Like a piece of Dresden china was Miss Edith Mitton, frocked in palest pink chiffon. In the Eliott T. Spaldings' party were Miss Nancy Morison in brilliant green, Miss Mariam Winslow in green lame and Miss Betty Spalding, daughter of the family, in a white taffeta, flowered in mauve over which she was wearing a gorgeous white fur evening wrap. Miss Ethel Grew, strikingly handsome, was attired in a bright red dress and a blending velvet cloak. Her mother, Mrs. Henry Sturgis Grew, was gowned in black lace. Miss Marian Duane who also was with her mother, Mrs. Harry Brewerton Duane, was costumed in black; her wrap, somewhat short, following the new mode, was trimmed with white fox. Miss Alice Dalton, at all times an outstanding debutante, was lovely in dress of white satin and wearing a corsage of gardenias. Auburn haired Miss Rachel Warner was clad in green velvet. Miss Olga Monks, who made her debut this winter at a tea given in her honor by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. George Howard Monks, was noticeably attractive in an unusual gown of maize satin, which had as its only ornamentation a blue satin bow falling in soft folds at the side-back of the long flowing skirt.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM C. COX of Cohasset was in the box which her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bancroft, have taken for the season. Mrs. Cox had chosen for the hearing of Wagner's famous music, a stylish yellow moire, so becoming to her dark hair. Miss Evelyn Royce and Miss Edith Wolcott were together, the former in a flame colored satin and Miss Wolcott in a distinctive black lace and green shoes. Mrs. Everett Morss, Jr., a leading matron of the younger set, was becomingly attired in eggshell satin. Ever distinguished looking with her fine carriage and her beautiful silver hair is Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller, who last night was clad in a rose blue and gray lame. In Mr. and Mrs. Fuller's party were Dr. and Mrs. Sylvester and Mrs. Bradlee. Mr. and Mrs. Jaffray de Hauteville Bell were among those enjoying the promenade during the entreacte. Mrs. Bell was attired in a brilliant and red lame creation.

ROBIN'S EGG BLUE SATIN was Miss Eleanor Garfield's preference in frocks. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin McDowell Garfield of Marlborough st., was presented to society several seasons ago. Miss Katharine Weeks of Brookline, accompanied her mother, Mrs. Robert S. Weeks, to the opera. Miss Virginia Hayden was looking piquante and charming as she nodded to friends here and there. Miss Elizabeth Blake had chosen to wear a black taffeta stripped around the bottom with various other colors. The smartest of lace frocks was worn by Miss Peggy Bent, its bright purple hue particularly becoming to her brunette type. One of Boston's leading society matrons, Mrs. J. Pennington Gardiner, was also in lace—hers of gray. Another of society's outstanding members, Mrs. William Dana Orcutt, was in attendance. She was gowned in silver lame.

OTHER DISTINGUISHED figures at this all important social event were Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, Jr., frocked in orange taffeta; Mrs. Harvey Bundy in one of similar hue, Mrs. Francis Bacon Lothrop in light blue, Miss Belle Hunt in black, Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall in greenish blue, Mrs. Rene Paine in green velvet, Mrs. Edwin N. Ohl in black and Mrs. Roger Griswold in [illegible]. The men were not a noticeable minority, as is so often the case at the opera; not only were the married men present as escorts for the members of their families but many of the younger men were evident, including Henry B. Sawyer, Jr., Gerard Paine and Harrison Proctor.

ONE OF THE BEST SITUATED boxes is that of Mr. and Mrs. H. Wendell Endicott. Last night Mrs. Endicott was attired in a very lovely white gown with which she wore white slippers. A rich silver brocade was worn by Mrs. Wallace Goodrich, a dark red was worn by Miss Rosamond Borland, while Miss Margaret Bazeley's was of cherry red. Also wearing this popular color was Mrs. Josiah Huntoon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Flanders. Mrs. Flanders herself was clad in white. Mrs. John G. Coolidge's dress was of black. Mrs. George von L. Meyer, Jr., was very attractive in a frock of pinkish hue. Also stopping for chats with their friends were Mrs. G. Herbert Windeler and her daughter, Miss Evelyn Windeler, Mrs. George Hawley and Mrs. Charles A. Proctor.

THERE is no thrill like that which accompanies the opening night, and people are wont to think that it calls forth the most brilliant audience of the entire season. However it seems pretty certain that the forthcoming performances, for the most part rather more popular with a greater number of people than is "Die Walkure," will bring out a large number of the smart set. "Aida," by Verdi, is to be sung tonight, with the two great favorites singing the leading feminine roles, Mme. Rosa Raisa, soprano, and Mme. Van Gordon, contralto.

"DIE WALKURE" IS GIVEN IN FINE STYLE

By MOSES SMITH

Presenting Wagner's "Die Walkure" before a capacity throng at the Boston Opera House, the Chicago Civic Opera Company opened its annual [illegible] last night. And in this simple statement of fact lies a story of revolution in popular taste. For the better part of a century Wagner and his music have been a bête noire at first for the musicians and later, after they had succeeded in adapting themselves, for the general public.

But so much has the populace changed, especially since the war, that we not only hear [illegible] in the [illegible] opera house but Wagner [illegible] dignified with what used to be reserved for "Aida," "Gioconda" or similar spectacle operas—an opening night.

We are happy that this is so, and that the local management for the present engagement esteemed the general state of musical culture in Boston so highly. Very likely, too, the committee was swayed by its desire to get off to a good start at the beginning, and the Chicago company is now well supplied with excellent German singers.

The whole truth, however, demands the inclusion of the significant fact that the audience was rather reserved for an opening night. Perhaps, after all, "Walkure" was too heavy for a hors d'oeuvre.

HIGH STANDARDS

After these preliminaries let us say that the performance of this masterpiece was up to the high standard previously set by the Chicago Company, which has been singularly fortunate with this music-drama in the past. The cast was much like that of last week.

The exceptions listed a new German tenor, Theodore Strack, as Siegmund; Alexander Kipnis singing the all-important Wotan, and, in the orchestra pit as generalissimo, in place of Giorgio Polacco, the new conductor, Egon Pollak.

The last-named person was of course the most important single individual in the production, for a Wagner music-drama demands almost absolute authority in the conductor's hand. We found this new conductor a musician of the finest parts, knowing his score intimately, as a matter of course, knowing what he demanded from his forces, and generally getting it.

Most grateful was his choice of tempi, which almost invariably struck us as the correct ones. Without bandstand or "show-business" effects, he could work up his forces to a ferocious climax, as he did at the end of the first and second acts. If the orchestra had been a bit more secure—and a first night explains many things—the cup of pleasure would have been full indeed.

The tenor, Mr. Strack, did his job capably; but since we had looked forward to something more, we were disappointed. He turned out to be a workmanlike artist, with good knowledge of the routine and with a very fair voice. Compared with other Wagnerian tenors we have heard he was excellent, but that, alas, is small compliment [illegible] for the [illegible] in very low estate.

ARTISTRY SUPERB

The casting of Kipnis as Wotan [illegible]

[illegible] it was [illegible] thrilling. What superb artistry! What moving [illegible] so that the [illegible] And what a beautiful voice it is. Who in the audience has not [illegible] to the final [illegible] his gripping words of farewell [illegible]

Not [illegible]

[illegible] Wagner wrote for the part, a presence, a dramatic [illegible] often seen by the present generation of opera goers.

She realized even more fully than last year the picture of the [illegible] Walkure whose unselfishness brings such tragic results. She needed not the overstuffed operatic figure to suggest the heroic mood in which [illegible]. At the same time she was flesh and blood and spirit of one of the most human and humane characters that the genius Wagner created out of words and tones.

There was Maria Olszewska [illegible] Fricka, the jealous spouse. Another year even has added [illegible] to the beauty and intensity of her voice, to her mastery of singing speech and gesture. Even a [illegible] audience could not refrain from interrupting a Wagner music-drama with applause following her exit after her single appearance.

Eva Turner was the Sieglinde [illegible] But Mme. Turner was not content with singing the role well. She, too, created a character whom we could believe in, whose sufferings we watched intently. Occasionally she was over-eager, forcing her voice to rough tones—and this neither of the other women singers did—a condition [illegible] in Wagner [illegible].

Edouard Cotreuil, as the bulky Hunding, was a credible figure, a keen student of Wagnerian speech as he will disclose himself to be of other styles. It is pleasant to record that the [illegible] featured with the cast the name of Charles Moor, who was responsible for the splendid staging of the production.

When all is written, however, first honors go to the master magician, Richard Wagner. Decade after decade passes and still his music casts its spell.

Miss Peck will shortly leave for Bolivia and Chile, her plan being to see the southern Andes by air.

Such a radical change as has overtaken American women in their costumes of the evening was never so realized as what was observed at last night's opera opening. THRILLING BOUTS IN INTERNATIONAL SHOW

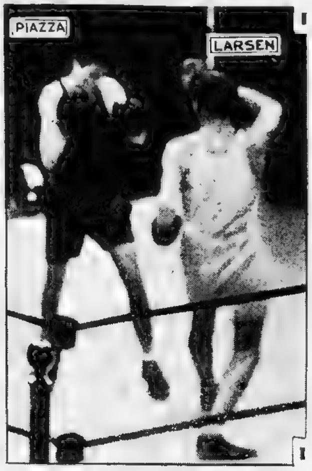
There was plenty of thrilling action in the International Amateur Boxing Show at the Boston Garden. American boxers won three out of four titles from the Germans and Italians. Above photo shows Murdoches Saggese, U. S. heavyweight down for the count of 9 in the semifinals. Severino Bruggiotti won the decision.



In one of the closest bouts of the show, Ring Larsen, U. S. 160-pound star, defeated Oddone Piazza, Italian, in the finals. Larsen defeated Albert Leidman of Germany in the semifinals. Against Piazza, Larsen fought a very hard and skillful battle, but many fans thought Piazza deserved the verdict.

AS a finale before their [illegible] week of [illegible] Bruins will [illegible] Jack Adams' Detroit Cougars tonight at the Boston Garden.

Due to the keen [illegible] has always existed between the Bruins and the [illegible] an unusual amount of interest in this contest. The demand for tickets has been heavy and one of the largest crowds of the season will be on hand.

Bill Grimes

[illegible]

COUGAR PILOT CONFIDENT

Although [illegible] the [illegible] Rangers and Blackhawks by [illegible] games, Manager Jack Adams is confident that his Detroiters are going to make the play-off.

They have been on the long end of more than their share of tough [illegible] games and Manager Jack believes that he will get the breaks from now on.

[illegible] Carson, Connor and Jimmie Herbert working together. Cooper is traveling at top speed and [illegible] well up in the individual standing. He has been rifling home goals with the same regularity that marked his playing while he was carrying on for the Bruins.

Jimmie Herberts will make his season's debut at the Garden tonight. [illegible] suffered a broken leg shortly after the close of last season and the injury bothered him to such an extent that he was unable to get into playing condition until the first of the year. He is now displaying indications of rounding into that [illegible] form which brought him [illegible] a few years back when he was [illegible] the Bruins.

BRUINS IN GOOD SHAPE

The Bruins came through the Ranger game with[illegible] any injuries, aside from a bruised hip which Dit Clapper acquired when he was kneed in a scrimmage. Trainer Win Green attended to Dit's injury immediately after the game and again yesterday and the pride of Hastings, Ont., will be back on right wing tonight.

Manager Art Ross will send Marty Barry with Harry Oliver and Perk Galbraith into action at the start of tonight's contest, and the [illegible] will be pitted against Goodfellow, McCabe and Cooper. [illegible] Goodfellow has been a sensation this season, which is his first in the big show, while McCabe, another newcomer, has broken in in fine style.

The Weiland, Gainor, Clapper [illegible] will work against George Hay, Larry Aurie and Herbie Lewis in the first period. The veteran Hay will play center with Aurie and Lewis on the wings. As the Dynamiters are the heavy scorers, Hay, Aurie and Lewis have the tough assignments.

The MacKay-Carson-Connor trio will get into action about the time the starting forwards of the Cougars make their second appearance, but in the meantime Jimmie Herberts and Bobby Connors will have seen some service.

Capt. Reg. Noble and "Shorty" Rockburn will start on the Detroit defense with Bill Beveridge in the nets. Rusty "The Great" Hughes will spare for Rockburn while Hicks will relieve Noble.

The Bruins will have their regular defense, Eddie Shore and Lionel Hitchman on the points, and the sensational Tiny Thompson in goal, with George Owen replacing Shore and Hitchman.

MEDFORD FIVE PLAYS QUINCY

Basketball holds the center of the school athletic stage today. Medford [illegible] is slated for this afternoon at Quincy. The Medford five [illegible] gone through a tough schedule and [illegible] weakened [illegible] games [illegible]

[illegible] and [illegible] players are [illegible] for the big [illegible] at Medford on [illegible]

[illegible] beaten by Everett [illegible] That was the first defeat suffered by Chelsea five for a long time and the team will be out to start another win string on Friday. Playing on the Medford floor, Chelsea will be under a handicap.

Cambridge Latin goes to Newton [illegible] This Suburban League contest should be good. Joe Matursevith of the Cantabs team is a good back. John Daley, regular center of the Cambridge team, has been sick and his absence weakens Joe Koslowsky's five.

The Cambridge forwards, Joe Blair and Walter Plausky, are a pair of lightweights. Either of these boys would rank with the top flight courtmen of school ranks with a little added weight.

Somerville has a hard Suburban League contest on its hands today when it goes to Rindge Tech. The latter five is big and fast. Alec Downey has his Somerville team moving nicely now. Rindge cannot loaf and win this fray.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
"Golf's Greatest Teacher"

TRY OUT NEW IDEAS IN PRACTICE—NOT IN ACTUAL PLAY

The golfing tip always implies some thinking on your part, and any golfer who paused even a moment to think of his own game would surely grasp the idea that he could not very well make an [illegible] change in his form and [illegible] at once. Chick Evans walked in the other day and in casual golfing conversation he mentioned that he had been trifling with a new putting form for four years and had pretty nearly come to the conclusion he would adopt it this year. He took hold of a putter and in considerable detail showed me the changes this new form would involve. What strikes me at the moment of writing this, now, is that we both ran in the same mind on this matter of change neither of us at the moment seeing anything funny in the idea of contemplating a putting form change for that many years and still being not completely decided about it. Of course a change is really important with Evans but it needn't be so momentous with you. The tip in this for you is that you must give any tip a chance to work. To do that introduce any form change slowly and carefully, expecting absolutely nothing.

McMillan and Bull Komar have been matched by Promoter Avery to engage in one of the other matches and Gino Garibaldi, the latest Italian sensation, who a few weeks ago tossed the giant Hans Steinke around the ring, will meet Pat Oshokee.

How to Introduce Properly

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

An argument has arisen in my family. I would appreciate it if you would settle it. What is the proper method of introducing a lady and a gentleman and an elderly and young man?

Needham GLADYS

Gladys, I love arguments on etiquette; they are indicative of an interest in what's what.

When a gentleman is [illegible] to a lady, say: "Miss Lady, may I present Mr. Gentleman." If you use this you will always be correct, and [illegible] will [illegible] to an [illegible] which I think every introduction should have. The word "introduce" may be [illegible] for "present" if you wish.

There are times when it seems that the introduction should be made a bit more informally. We may prefer to use the names only. This is quite correct. "Miss Lady, Mr. Gentleman."

And warning: There are several expressions that are taboo in making introductions — "Meet Mr. Gentleman," "Meet my friend," "I want to make you acquainted with Mr. ——" All of these forms are terrible.

Since a gentleman is introduced to a lady, it is easier to make the introduction if the lady's name is mentioned first.

When we introduce a young man to an older man, we mention first the name of the older man, since the introduction is made to him: "Mr. Older, may I present (or introduce) Mr. Youngerman?" Or, too, we may mention only the names: "Mr. Older, Mr. Youngerman."

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1—Is it necessary to place a chair in its former position after leaving the table in a restaurant?

2—Which is the correct way to eat toast when served with jam?

Melrose JOHN

1. No. When you rise from the table leave the chair in the position in which it is.

2. Many punctilious hostesses now place with toast and jam, especially when they are served with tea, the tea knife and fork, which is the small knife and fork of the size of those that we used to refer to as [illegible] knife and fork. These are very convenient to use in eating toast and jam. Or you may break off a small piece of toast and with your knife "assist" a very small amount of jam onto the piece of toast and eat it in this way.

Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.

Lovejoy -:- Serial by Beatrice Burton

CHAPTER [illegible]

"H[illegible] Steve," she [illegible] he answered [illegible] want to [illegible] bothered [illegible] Club [illegible] from [illegible]

Steve said he would be [illegible] waiting [illegible] half past seven [illegible] over the telephone there was [illegible] he eagerness in his voice.

He's a decent kind of a man, and I ought to let him alone, Lovejoy thought as she hung up the receiver and started out to the kitchen.

But one look at the pretty little dinner-table made her change her mind. If Tom was going to have dinner downtown whenever he felt like it she certainly had a right to do as she pleased too. What was sauce for the gander was certainly sauce for the goose.

"Hilda," she said, opening the kitchen door, "Mr. Nichols has just phoned to say he won't be home for dinner. I'm going out, too, so you may as well put everything away. You have all the chops you want and put the rest away for tomorrow's lunch."

Hilda smiled broadly. "Yeh, and I go to the Scandinavian Club to play basketball tonight," she said. "I glad because I get away so nice and early."

Lovejoy shook her head.

"I'm sorry, Hilda, but you won't be able to go out tonight. I'm going out for the evening, too. I just told you so."

Hilda drooped. "Yeh?" she asked. "Maybe I should not have taken this job. I not think I have to sit with baby all the time."

"Well, you'll have to sit with him tonight," Lovejoy said sharply.

She turned and went out of the kitchen. Hilda followed her with a look of hate that she did not see.

It was 10 o'clock when Lovejoy got out of Steve Oglebay's car at the corner of Tudor Road and Stallings Lane.

A new house was going up on that corner. It looked very attractive in the moonlight and Lovejoy stood looking at it with longing eyes for a moment before she started home. . . . What fun it would be to live in a house like that! What a place for parties it would be!

Well, if Tom keeps on making money we can have a house like that pretty soon, she told herself as she opened her gate and started up the front walk.

Tom was sitting in the little [illegible] room waiting for her.

Beyond, through the open door of the kitchen, she could see Hilda bent over the table writing a letter. She was always writing letters to her people in "the old country."

She got up when she heard Lovejoy open the door and came walking into the room with a telegram in her hand.

"Here is a telegram that came after you went out," she said, and handed it to Lovejoy.

It was not signed, but Lovejoy knew that it was from Aline Alderson.

"Home day after tomorrow," it read. "Please hold all my mail for arrival."

"Let's see it. Who's it from?" Tom asked, getting to his feet.

He came across the room.

Lovejoy put the letter behind her back.

"It's nothing," she said [illegible] "It really isn't anything important. It's about somebody else, and I can't show it to you."

Tom held out his hand for the telegram.

"I insist upon seeing that thing," he said.

But Lovejoy shook her head firmly. She simply couldn't show that wire to Tom. She couldn't let him know that she had been acting as a go-between for Aline and the man in South Port. She couldn't give Aline away.

It is a favorite saying of men that women do not know how to stand up for each other.

But that's not true. Women can have friendships as strong as the fine friendships that very often exist between men. And there is honor among women just as there is honor among men—and among thieves!

And not for a second did Lovejoy even dream of letting Tom know what Aline was doing outside the safe walls of her home.

"No, I'm sorry, Tom, but you can't see this telegram," she said. "You'll just have to trust me this once."

Tom's face had gone white under the lights in the room. His lips were pressed together in a [illegible]

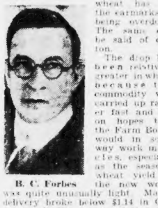
Trade, Stocks Better; Farm Prices Down

Wheat and Cotton Pressure Overdone? Good Motor Reports Awaited

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, Feb. 4—A very good week for stock prices, an encouraging week for industry, a very bad week for farm products, notably wheat and cotton.

* * *



B. C. Forbes

Selling of wheat has all the earmarks of being overdone. The same can be said of cotton.

The drop has been relatively greater in wheat because that commodity was carried up rather fast and far on hopes that the Farm Board would in some way work miracles, especially as the season's wheat yield in the new world was quite unusually light. March delivery broke below $1.14 in Chicago, palpably on speculative selling. Cotton at 16 cents in New York for March delivery, and under that figure for spot supplies in New Orleans and other Southern markets looks unduly depressed. A year ago the staple was slightly above 20 cents a pound. Having regard to the general price level and to the cost of living, our two main cash crops are too cheap to be reasonably profitable to the population engaged in their cultivation.

Just as there is sound reason for expecting standard shares to recover substantially from their panicky levels—many have already done so—so it will be logical for both wheat and cotton to command better prices once the current bear pressure relaxes.

The financial world is awaiting with keen interest reports from our leading motor manufacturers showing their January sales. General Motors will, I understand, issue a cheerful statement. Ford doubtless will do the same. Some other companies, though not all, have enjoyed brisk revival in demand since the lean days towards the end of the year.

Favorable figures from the motor industry would do more than any other one thing to encourage confidence that general business is on the up-grade.

Not only so, but expanded automobile production would mean the placing of heavier orders in the many directions whence manufacturers draw their vast supplies.

The steel industry continues to enjoy pronounced recovery. It has almost doubled output since the low point touched in December—an extraordinarily rebound. Whether the enlarged rate of activity (75 per cent of capacity) will be maintained remains to be seen. The fact that prices have thus far sagged rather than strengthened is not a particularly optimistic sign.

Construction forecasts are more rosy than actual statistics covering the volume now under way. Washington is urging corporations to hasten the execution of planned programs. The American Federation of Labor reports that unemployment is worse even than two winters ago and that it is especially widespread in building trades. Manifestly, it would help were Washington's urging to be promptly heeded.

Monetary conditions favor enterprise. For the first time in 20 months call loans were renewed on the New York Stock Exchange at the end of the week at 4 per cent, which contrasts with 8 per cent a year ago.

Time money then cost 7½, now as low as 4½ per cent. Rates for bankers' acceptances were last week lowered one-eighth. Brokers' loans showed only nominal change (up $4,000,000), but the week brought renewed engagements of gold in Japan and Brazil, and the Federal Reserve System's reserve has risen to 78.3 per cent, against 69.4 per cent 12 months ago.

The lowering of the French Bank's rate—to 3 per cent—is hailed as presaging sympathetic action first in London and then here. Obviously, the scramble for gold in Europe has subsided.

Cheaper money is needed to stimulate trade and new financing both in France and Britain. The effect of a reduction in the official rediscount rate (4½ per cent) in New York would be felt more in the security markets than in commerce, although the sentimental influence would cover the country.

The stock market has pursued an entirely normal course. Average quotations gained half-a-dozen points for the week. Activity increased slightly, usually when prices were moving up.

Skepticism is gradually ebbing. The prevailing opinion now is that forced liquidation has been all but completed and that there is little danger of any renewed pressure of a serious nature. As a consequence, investors who were holding off to make sure that danger had definitely passed are now beginning to enter the market, though still timidly, not voraciously. Stocks are preferred to bonds, yet influential investment banking firms have been able to float several large bond issues, apparently without difficulty.

February starts off better than did January, both businesswise and stock marketwise.

CURB MARKET IS SUPPORTED AFTER DROP

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York, Feb. 4 (AP)—Further selling pressure appeared on the curb market during the early trading today, but the market turned dull on the decline, and good support soon appeared for most leading shares. On the whole, however, the market was a narrow, professional affair.

Electric Bond and Share and American Super Power, both of which were heavily sold yesterday, recovered partially. American Light & Traction sold up more than 5 points in a small turnover. American States A was a soft spot, losing more than 3 points.

Oil and natural gas stocks were generally firm. Consolidated Gas Utilities A sold up a couple of points. Arkansas Natural Gas and Indian Territory Oil were in fair demand. Gulf gained about two points.

Pennroad Corp. showed little response to Wall Street rumors that it had acquired control of Transcontinental Air Transport. Investment trusts and holding company shares generally were inclined to ease.

In the industrials National Steel, Deere, American Cigar and Ross Gear made moderate progress in quiet trading. Aviation Corp. of the Americas reacted more than two points. Among the foreign shares Courtaulds, Ltd., sagged nearly a point to a new low for the year.

U. S. CHEMICAL LINES STUDIED

Manufacturers of nitrates and producers of sulphur and welding supplies are among the most favorably situated divisions of the chemical trade today, according to a current analysis of the industry by the Standard Statistics Company, of New York. The survey continues in part:

"Satisfactory earnings for 1929 are expected for practically all leading industrial chemical companies, despite the fact that business receded in certain lines during the final quarter of the year. On the basis of the present outlook for general business during 1930, most chemical concerns are likely to be well satisfied if this year's returns equal those for 1929. Success in such a degree appears most probable for manufacturers of nitrates, and producers of sulphur and welding supplies.

"Alcohol manufacturers have accepted without protest a reduction in production for 1930, but expect that slight increases in prices may maintain last year's volume of gross business. New and imposing candidates for manufacturing at locations loom, however, which may ultimately present sufficient capacity to considerably upset the present picture.

"Decidedly adverse conditions in the cotton goods industry imply a lowering domestic demand for bleaching agents and other chemicals used in cotton conversion. Foreign demand, which is well sustained is, however, of considerable importance to certain manufacturers."

Extend Time for Deposits on Merger

F. & W. Grand-Silver Stores, Inc., organized for merging Grand and Silver chain store systems, has notified minority stockholders of F. & W. Grand 5-10-25-Cent Stores, Inc., and Isaac Silver & Brothers Co., Inc., who have not yet deposited stock under the merger plan that the time limit under which such deposits may be made has been extended from February 1 to March 1.

Under the plan stocks of the two operating companies are exchangeable on a share for share basis for stock of the consolidated company.

To close of business January 31, 90.5 per cent of common of F. & W. Grand 5-10-25-Cent Stores, Inc., and 97.1 per cent of common Isaac Silver & Brothers Co., Inc., had been deposited for exchange for shares of F. & W. Grand-Silver Stores, Inc.

PENSION PLAN IS ADOPTED BY BANK

New York, Feb. 4—The Bowery Savings Bank has announced the adoption of an insured pension program which is the first of the kind established by any savings bank of the state. The retirement plan, as well as the group life insurance program in force under an earlier contract, are being underwritten by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., according to the announcement made by V. A. Lersner, president of the bank.

Under consideration by the bank's officials for some time the new plan follows closely the pension program outlined by Henry Bruere first vice president of the bank in a report unanimously adopted last October by the N. Y. State Association of Savings Banks.

Its outstanding feature is the easy method it gives employes of having their savings for old age requirements substantially increased and absolutely protected against loss.

The employes simply deposit part of their monthly savings in a pension fund which the insurance company will administer along with supplementary deposits made by the bank. The insurance company will use the funds thus placed in its care for the purchase of group annuities payable to enrolled employes at future ages.

The new plan is cooperative to the extent that both the bank and participating employes will make regular deposits to establish pensions based on service after February 1, of this year.

BOND MARKET SEES EASIER MONEY RATES

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

New York, Feb. 4. (AP)—The bond market was steady in another dull trading session today. Recent strength of United States Government issues was taken as an indication that easier money rates are in prospect, and although there was little disposition to make extensive commitments in any section of the list, quotations were stable.

High grade rails varied only a shade from the Monday close. Atchison general 4s, Baltimore & Ohio 4s and 5s, Canadian Pacific 4s, Southern Pacific listings and Union Pacific 4s were firm. Utilities moved slowly and ruled steady while prime industrials behaved similarly.

There were wider moves in some of the semi-speculative obligations in the latter classification, North American Cement 6½s rising nearly a point and Warner Sugar 7s advancing 2¾. Convertibles were [illegible].

French 7½s remained strong, trading around 121½. Peru 7s and Vida 6s improved, but there was somewhat less demand for European government obligations.

Treasuries held most of the ground gained yesterday, finding the market comparatively dull. Liberties were quiet.

Flotation of the part of the Siemens-Halske $22,500,000 issue of participation debentures was made today when $14,000,000 of the block was publicly offered at 93. The remainder is to be sold in Europe.

An unusual feature of the bonds is their 1000 year maturity, although they are redeemable at the holders' option after 15 years and are noncallable up to 1942.

TOWN TO LOSE BIGGEST PLANT

Warren, Me., Feb. 4. The possible loss of the town's chief industry was forecast by the recommendation of the directors that the Georges River Woolen Mills be shut down indefinitely.

The stockholders, about 25 in number, are being notified of this action and will hold a meeting February 19 when the fate of the industry will probably be determined.

The majority of the stock in the Georges River Mills is owned in and around Boston. The closing of the mill is attributed to "general conditions."

AT THE DIAL

By THE RADIO EDITOR

WILL the new screen-tubes which are being so much advertised, improve my radio receiver? That's a question which is asked perhaps five times as frequently as any other by radio listeners these days. It is a question which surprises the expert each time he hears it. It would seem as though the columns of editorial and advertising space which have been devoted to launching the tube ought to have implanted in the public mind a fairly clear idea of its uses and limitations. But thousands of radio fans are still hazy on the subject. They read glowing reports of the tube's performance in modern receivers, and their natural reaction is to suppose that it can do as much for their particular set if it is used to replace and older type of tube. The screen-grid tube is employed chiefly as a radio-frequency amplifier in the newer receiving circuits. It cannot replace a type 226 tube in the conventional tuned radio frequency circuit. Anyone who attempts the substitution will have only a burned out tube for his trouble.

VICTOR HERBERT'S "World's Progress March," will be one of three numbers by that composer to be played by the Savannah Liners' Orchestra over the WBZ and the NBC System at 6:30 tonight. Harold Sanford conducts the orchestra. The program follows in detail:

World's Progress March (Herbert), La Czarina (Ganne), At Twilight, At the Fair (Gran), Espana Waltz (Waldteufel), Al Fresco (Herbert), Dance of the Babes in the Woods, A Kiss in the Dark (Herbert), In the Shadows (Finck), Just You, Just Me, from "Marianne."

EARLY history of Dartmouth College will be related in tonight's Soconyland Sketch, entitled "Wah-Who-Wah," an original radio drama, to be broadcast at 7:30 over WEEI and other NBC stations. The original charter provided for the instruction of Indians among the students. In 1815, during the famous Dartmouth College case, there happened to be no Indians in attendance. To fortify the case of the college a professor of Greek was sent into the wilderness of northern New Hampshire to enlist some Indian students. His adventures are recounted in the reminiscences of Daniel Webster, an alumnus of the college who successfully defended his alma mater.

A ROMANCE of the Kentucky hills will be dramatized during the True Romances [illegible] over WNAC and statio[illegible] the Columbia System at [illegible] The story, from the pen of a[illegible] [illegible]eator who has spent his life in service among the mountaineers, recounts the development of a mountain girl into a cultured woman of the world.

THE LIBBY concert ensemble will be heard over WBZ and the NBC system at 8:30 o'clock. Spanish folk songs will be sung by the Rollickers' male quartet in the following program under the direction of Josef Pasternack:

Procession of the Toreadors, from "Carmen" (Bizet), orchestra; La Paloma (Yradier), El Relicario (Padilla), quartet; La Zarzuela, from "La Feria" (Lacome), orchestra; Chiquita, Rosita, quartet; Romanza (Grandos), orchestra; Yo Te Amo, Ay, Ay, Ay (Perez Freire), quartet; Los Toros, from "La Feria" (Lacome), orchestra.

HARRY RICHMAN, for three years star of "George White's Scandals," will sing from New York in the Paul Whiteman Old Gold Hour over WNAC and the Columbia network at 9 o'clock. A new Irving Berlin song from "Puttin' On the Ritz," Richman's first film, will be one of his featured numbers.

SONGS heard on previous broadcasts will be repeated by the Happy Wonder Bakers over WEEI and the NBC system at 9:30. Frank Luther, tenor of the trio, will be featured in the following program: Lorelei, from "This Year of Grace" (Coward), orchestra; La Paloma (Yradier), string orchestra; How Long Has This Been Going On? (Gershwin), vocal trio; Deep River (spiritual), orchestra; Sweeter Than Sweet (Whiting), tenor solo, Frank Luther; excerpts from "Riviera Girl" (Kalman), orchestra; Lady Luck, from "Show of Shows" (Perkins), ensemble.

IRENE BORDONI will head the celebrities in tonight's weekly R. K. O. Radio Hour at 10:30 over the N. B. C. chain coming to Boston through WEEI. With her charming French accent she will sing a group of new songs written for her especially. Bordoni was last seen in Boston a few weeks ago at the new B. F. Keith Theater in "Paris," the screen adaptation of the stage play of the same name. Other vaudeville artists who will take part in the program are Margaret Young, blues singer; Peter Higgins, popular tenor; the Chinese Whoopee Revue, featuring the comedian and imitator, Joe Wong, and Charles "Slim" Timblin and Co., blackface comedians. Leo Reisman and his R. K. O. Orchestra will furnish all accompanying music.

THE fourth Publix Radio-Vue will be broadcast from the stage of the Brooklyn Paramount Theater by WNAC and a nation-wide network of the Columbia System at 11:30.

Bob West and Elsie Thompson will be heard playing at the twin consoles.

Girl, 15, Behind in School, Shoots Self

The contractor will be required to operate in performance of service on this route vessels of Class 6 capable of maintaining a speed of 10½ knots at sea in ordinary weather and of a gross registered tonnage of not less than 2,500 tons; provided that the contractor shall substitute for vessels originally accepted a minimum of three vessels of Class 4, two of which at least shall be new, capable of maintaining a speed of 16 knots at sea in ordinary weather and of a gross registered tonnage of not less than 5,000 tons, with first-class accommodations for not less than 100 passengers and with cargo refrigeration space of approximately 20,000 cubic feet, to be put into operation as follows: One such vessel which shall be new to be put into operation not later than the end of the third year from the beginning of service under the contract, and one additional such new vessel to be put into operation not later than the end of the fourth year from the beginning of service under the contract, and a third vessel meeting the same requirements but which need not necessarily be new to be placed in operation not later than the end of the fifth year from the beginning of service under the contract. The contractor and the Postmaster General may agree upon the operation of additional vessels of Class 4 and/or other classes. Classifications of vessels on this route are based upon speed without regard to tonnage. He Learned in Lynn

And Now See What Mr. Bata, of Czechoslovakia, Is Doing to Lynn's Shoe Industry!

GREAT colored signs, on Essex Street near Atlantic Avenue, tell the visiting shoe-buyer that here is "headquarters for Czechoslovakian shoes," or sandals.

They need no such signs in Lynn, to tell shoe worker and shoe manufacturer of the menace to their happiness which has been thrown up in the region of the Blue Danube by a Czech who learned his trade, in part, at Lynn benches.

This foreign manufacturer, who made a large part of the 4,500,000 pairs of shoes which came to the United States last year, is Thomas Bata.

With a brother, now dead, and two other young Czechs, Bata came to Lynn a number of years ago and for more than a year was employed in one factory. His friends went to three others. On their way back home they were employed in like manner in shoe factories in England and Germany. Then they returned to Zilina and opened their first factory. . . . Today, there are MANY Bata factories. They have adopted the mass production methods of the most modern American establishments. They make 35,000,000 pairs of shoes a year!

The Bata shops are said to be "strangling" the shoe industry of Lynn, for Bata makes women's shoes—GOOD shoes, up to Lynn quality—that are sold at retail throughout the U. S. A. for from $2.50 to $3.95 the pair!

And how is this possible?

This has been made possible because there is NO tariff—none whatever—on shoes.

So far as paying a nickel for the privilege of placing his shoes on the American market is concerned, Mr. Bata might be turning them out in Augusta, or Manchester, or Haverhill, or Lynn—where he learned the trade.

We cannot believe it possible that the United States Senate, advised of this situation, will be deaf, dumb and blind to the interest of those American homes whose well-being depends upon the well-being of the shoe industry.

Faunce the Liberal

His Opinion of the Prohibition Law NOT That of the Anti-Saloon League

READING the opinion of the late President Emeritus of Brown University on the Eighteenth Amendment and the manner of its enforcement, prohibitionists living far from New England will find it difficult to believe that Dr. Faunce was really a Baptist minister.

"When we place the selling of a glass of beer in the same category as forgery or arson," he said only a few weeks since, "and think that by merely increasing penalties we can increase obedience, we are confusing moral issues for the whole Nation."

The great teacher and eminent citizen who lies dead in Providence, mourned by city and State no less than by the graduates and undergraduates of the University he helped to build, was a liberal of liberals. HE was religious, deeply religious, but he would force his religion upon none other. You will be glad, no doubt, to read a Christian liberal's views on religion:

"Brown University will never attempt to impose any religious creed on any man. But religion says to every one of us, in the words of Emerson: 'They reckon ill who leave me out.'

"I would not turn over my hand to get any one of our students to join my church. Be true to your own religious faith, whatever it may be.

"But I wish to say with all possible emphasis on this opening day of the college year that there are two things no reasonable man can ever believe.

"He cannot believe that this marvelous world came by chance, and he cannot believe that he himself is a mere machine.

"The man who says that this world, with all its appeal of living thought to our human thought, came by chance, to be quite frank, is a moron. And the man who believes that he himself is only an impersonal mechanism, a mindless thing—let no such man be trusted.

When the Rev. William Herbert Perry Faunce became the ninth President of Brown, in 1899, there were 860 students, the faculty numbered 90 and the assets of the University were slightly more than $1,000,000.

At the close of his thirty years in the presidency, there were more than 2000 students, the faculty numbered more than 180 and Brown's assets were more than $13,000,000.

Educator, author, preacher and patriot, Dr. Faunce was one of the great Americans of his time.

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

THE London naval debate is now in its third week. The talking is full of words.

Nobody is foolish enough to think America is going to sink its navy just because it wants to see some funny bubbles.

The only protection England has is its fleet. Deprive Britain of its navy and it is a shucked oyster.

Then what are the diplomatics doing in London? The peace chatter is a lot of international ectoplasm.

The conference will probably limit California to one bathing beauty to every hundred miles of coast line.

We concede the royal broadcast last week was a sensation.

Even a cat can tune out on a king.

We predict that this naval reduction business will wind up with more work for the gobs at less pay.

When Spain suggested that Italy reduce its cruisers to the seventh decimal point there was an Italian howl that shellacked the rafters.

The Italian proposal that France should scuttle a few armored scows was greeted with three coats of contempt.

So far the naval holiday hasn't included the first cabin passengers.

After all, war is a pretty good employment bureau. Our shipyards keep a hundred thousand mechanics busy.

We concede that the average peace conference absorbs a lot of the unemployed.

But you cannot stretch a spider's whiskers across a washtub. The cruise of the American delegation to London is just another boat ride.

The first tangle in the conference was over our rum fleet of twenty-five destroyers. Shall this booze armada be classified as fighting vessels or will they be tabulated as just another harmless growl from an animal cracker?

Will Grover Whalen amputate his high hat and go back to peace strength? If the conference really wants to reduce something to reasonable proportions why doesn't it start on Primo Carnera's feet?

A conference accomplishes something. It saves the nations the expense of spying on each other.

And even then we don't get the real facts. The only time the cards are on the table is when they fall out of sleeves.

H. G. Wells Writes on "The Science of Life"

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and Geo. P. Wells

THE view is not unanimously held among biologists. Some point out that amoeba is more like a whole human body than one of our constituent cells, for it can do a number of things that our own cells cannot do.

H. G. Wells

It can, for example, live in a pond, finding and securing its own nourishment. No single human cell could do that, nor could a cell from any of the higher animals or plants. Tissue-cultures have to be carefully nursed and grown in elaborately standardized and sterilized fluids containing appropriate foods.

Moreover, the life-history of amoeba is more complicated than that of a cell in a tissue-culture, for, besides simply tearing itself into two halves, it has other methods of reproduction, which we shall describe later. Amoeba, in short, is a whole and independent organism, while the tissue-cell is only a subordinated organism.

Yet it is an attractive comparison. Our white blood cells creep about our bodies and consume things very much as amoebas creep about and feed. And if our own cells lack the self-completeness of amoeba, that is closely approached by the cells of many lower invertebrate forms.

We have already noted what happens when Obelia or a sponge is passed through gauze. We can see the cells that originally belonged to a many-celled creature wandering about by themselves, lost and disorganized like a routed army.

They creep about in the manner of amoebae, and they can be seen to clump together gregariously in enormous flocks; they arrange and specialize and organize themselves so that the clumps, at first formless, gradually shape into individuals of a higher order, into tiny polyps or sponges.

Moreover, we can trace a series of animals leading up by gradual stages from these feebly organized cell-communities to our own strictly disciplined bodies.

These are facts, and basing ourselves upon them we make the statement that amoeba is an unicellular organism—unicellular because it is like a single cell, organism because it is a complete living thing in itself—a statement which implies that a man is a great number of amoeba-like creatures, their independence sacrificed to the common good.

We may most clearly understand this statement by comparing amoeba to a naked and solitary savage on a desert island, and a human tissue-cell to a trim, bowler-hatted clerk, trotting with umbrella and attache (case) to his appointed desk in the city. Both are built in much the same way, and their corresponding parts work in much the same way.

They are homologues. But one is without the versatility of the other. The clerk is a specialist in his own particular job, but in specializing himself he has lost touch with many of the basal activities of men.

Remove him from the civilization to which he belongs, isolate him on a desert island, and although he can write and calculate more efficiently than the savage, you will have to take the most elaborate care of him, providing him with shelter and clothing and cooked food, or he will surely perish.

The savage, on the other hand, can build a hut and scrape together a meal, and his tough skin can survive exposure to the elements. He is a jack-of-all trades, albeit doing nothing very efficiently, and it is precisely because he is unspecialized that he is independent.

One can trace just the same distinction between a free, unspecialized amoeba and an efficient but limited muscle fibre or nerve-cell or gland-cell; the latter three, like the clerk, are accustomed to a division of labor, and have come to depend on other units for the satisfaction of many of their needs.

Extend the parallel one degree further; contrast the day-to-day routine of that one-man community the savage, with the enormously complicated and varied activities of a whole civilized nation, and you get a valid parallel to the difference between amoeba and your own highly organized body.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

IN love, most women are looking for devotion—most men for diversion. That's how the wires get crossed.

Love is a sort of divine ecstasy, which gilds the hard drab facts of life, and tints them to match your illusions.

Religion is what a man sometimes practices on Sunday mornings—when it is too cold or rainy to play golf.

Somehow, the average woman just can't refrain from reminding a man of his promises, his predictions, his obligations and his rubbers. It's only a little thing—but so is a mosquito.

The average man has a deep-dyed suspicion that, when a woman complains that she is all tired out from the housecleaning, she is just trying to get into the limelight by playing on his sympathies. He simply cannot believe that any house can't be "cleaned" by running a straw through it and blowing out the dust.

To be popular in this world, all you need to remember is that every woman loves to be looked at and every man loves to be listened to.

Telling a girl that she is "irresistible" is a man's subtle little way of throwing all the responsibility for the kiss on the shoulder he is kissing.

A man is so inconsistent that he will marry a girl because she is "like putty in his hands"—and then complain to heaven because she sticks to him like chewing gum.

The girl who used to whisper scornfully, "'That woman PAINTS!'" now has a daughter who uses three kinds of rouge and feels positively "unclad" without her lipstick.

No woman can quite understand that aboriginal thrill she feels when a man stops trying to pacify her—and gets good and wrathy!

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

TWILIGHT and firelight and
  End of the year,
Long shadows creeping up,
  Crescent moon clear.
Glimpse of the barren beach
  Through windows wide,
Muted by thick walls reach
  Songs of the tide.

Was it but yesterday
  Or years long done,
Sprawled on the sand we lay,
  Warm in the sun?
Yesterday, was it, Love,
  Or long years gone,
We watched pale stars above
  From sands at dawn?

Though as the seasons change
  Sky, sand and sea,
All things alike grow strange,
  Changeless go we.
What can the fugitive,
  Pale hand of Time
Take from two hearts that live
  In Love's bright clime?

A Fine-Looking Boy

But Why Should He Be Emperor?

(Copyright, 1930)

HEIR TO HUNGARY AND AUSTRIA

THIS good-looking youth, who claims from his father the Crown as King of Hungary and the succession to the Hapsburg throne, as Emperor of Austria, is called "Charles IV Otto von Hapsburg-Lothringen."

But for the great war which started with the killing of his relative, then heir to the Austrian throne, this boy in the natural course of events would have become King of Hungary, and Emperor of Austria, inheriting the 1000-year-old crown of St. Stephen.

The blood of the Hapsburgs runs in his veins. And he is probably the best looking Hapsburg seen in many a generation. That is due to his extremely good-looking and devoted mother.

Doing her duty nobly, she added eight children to the Hapsburg line at a time when fate seems to have decreed that none of them shall ascend the throne.

In the Treaty of Peace as improved by Britain and France, this boy must remain an exile from the empire and the kingdom of his ancestors.

Probably he would make as good a king and emperor as any average accident of birth.

But just WHY should this handsome boy, or anybody else, become Hungary's King and Austria's Emperor?

You would think that kingdom and that ancient empire got into enough trouble under the late Emperor, a feeble old man, in whose dotage the empire and kingdom drifted into a destructive war.

The proud mother of this boy, determined that he shall be king and emperor, devotes all of her energies and her small fortune to his welfare, but in vain, probably.

It is quite probable that in the friendly American city of Hollywood this youth of royal blood and handsome face might be able to make more money than any King of Hungary ever had.

He has a serious face, magnificent good looks. And the great lady stars would be proud to act and talk with such concentrated kingly and imperial royalty.

The boy's mother probably would resent that suggestion.

A real King, in real life, no movie king or emperor, is the mother's plan for her son.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW York, Feb. 4—Song birds are flying high these days. No longer do they nest in the hall bed rooms of fading brown stone fronts. Tin Pan Alley is transferred to the clouds and high in their pent house aeries they chirp of moon and spoon, huddle and cuddle.

With theme song profits they have flown back from Hollywood—this is geting a bit thick. But the idea is successful composers and lyricists now occupy skyscraper mansions. Here they may strike chords and hit high notes without bothering a soul.

Most song writers work at night. In apartment houses and hotels they faced restrictions that cramped their style. Neighbors complained and in many instances leases were broken. Irving Berlin started the fad by building a pent house overlooking the East river.

Sigmund Romberg, who began as a piano pounder at old Bustanoby's and wound up fashioning operettas, has a terraced cottage with an old fashioned well and everything on the roof of an apartment house on the upper West Side. Nearby is the sky salon of Buddy De Sylva.

De Sylva's income tops all the lyricists. He came into prominence writing several songs, including "April Showers," and followed this with smashing musical comedy and talkie successes. His income is reputed a half million a year.

Vincent Youmans has a home on the roof above his office on West 44th st. George Gershwin, the composer, and brother, Ira, a lyricist, have a joint pent house at 75th and Riverside Drive, a 12-room domicile, done in modernistic style.

Lorenz Hart of the hit making duo of Rodgers and Hart, is enthroned in a cloud castle at 101st st. and Central Park West, while Richard Rodgers is atop a 19-storied building on Park ave. at 56th st. Composers still live in attics. But how!

The S. P. C. A. is fighting to unmuzzle dogs in New York, believing that only a leash four feet long is necessary. They have offered statistics to show that only those bitten by dogs with rabies were those attacked by roaming stray canines.

There are in Greater New York 300,000 dogs. So long as affection exists in the human heart people will own dogs. No purchasable possession to my notion offers so much happiness at such little cost. Many owners, however, are inconsiderate of those who do not care particularly for dogs. This inconsideration is responsible for the muzzle. The police dog owner is the greatest offender.

Sensible advice is given by a dog expert who says: "Never permit a stranger to pat your dog along the streets." It is his theory that a dog frequently mistakes a friendly reach of the hand for the signal of an attack on his master. He adds: "This results in 98 per cent of the dog bites."

They are telling of the chorus girl who, when asked if she filed her nails, replied she just cut them off and threw them away.

The latest in colored nails, incidentally, is a bright green, supplanting the brilliant purple and flaming red, but the high spot was offered by a lady whose nails were smeared with a preparation that shed a phosphorescent glow when the light dimmed in a night club the other evening.

A father of 71, as the fore, and his son of 50, as the aft section of a burlesque horse, completely "ran away" with a recent English revue imported to Broadway by Arch Selwyn. The antics were so uproariously funny that the performers were forced to step out of the horse and take six curtain bows on the opening night.
